Draft Boards Get Ready for First Call

AWAIT ORDER LIST, FURTHER INSTRUCTIONS

Second Call, Due About Dec. 2, To Take 10,000 In Ohio For Army Training.

FORM HOME DEFENSE

Light Announces Ohio State Guard To Take Place of National Guard Units.

Richland county's three draft boards awaited the draft order list and instructions from Washington today before sending out the first of more than 9,000 questionnaires to men in the county whose names were drawn Tuesday in the draft lottery.

Meanwhile, it was announced that the second draft call, due about Dec. 2, will take 10 tir as many men from Richland county and Ohio as the first call on Nov. 18.

While the November call will take only 996 men from Ohio because of heavy enlistments, the December call will take 10,000.

Organization of a home defense unit, to be known as the Ohio State guard, by Jan. 1 to replace the Ohio National guard, was announced today by Adj. Gen. Gilson D. Light.

The new unit will have approximately 3,250 officers and men whose work will include service as a state militia in emergencies such as floods, riots, and strikes.

Adj. Gen. Light said some men for the Ohio State guard will be enlisted from the 18-to-21 year age limit, but most of the men would be in the age group above the 21 to 36 draft age classifications.

Ohio National guardsmen were mobilized Oct. 15 for a year's army

More Serial Numbers To Be Published

Serial numbers of those Mansfielders who registered for the draft away from home Oct. 16 and whose cards have now been received by their local boards will be carried in Sunday's News-Journal. By saving the list of order numbers as it appeared in yesterday's News-Journal, those Mansfielders will be able to ascertain where they stand in the draft lottery.

Watch Sunday's News-Journal for the additional serial numbers.

REVEALS PLANS TO AID BRITAIN

President Indicates 12,000 More Fighting Planes To Be Ordered.

(By International News Service)

ABORAD PRESIDENTIAL SPECIAL ENROUTE TO WASHINGTON — President Roosevelt, having pledged that the United States would become "the strongest air power in the world" and having disclosed plans to give Great Britain "sympathetic consideration" for an order of 12,000 additional fighting planes, returned to Washington today from a fast-moving campaign swing through Massachusetts and Connecticut.

In another fighting speech, delivered last night to a packed Boston Garden, the president struck repeatedly at his third term opposition and reached the conclusion that "all the sweet words of the Republican leaders in Philadelphia last June were not worth the paper they were written on."

The president came back to the White House, among his other problems, to confer with members of the national defense council priorities board about the further contemplated aid to embattled Britain.

He got cheers from his Boston audience when he said he had recommended to William S. Kundsen, Edward R. Stettinius jr., and Leon Henderson—who comprise the priorities board—that they let 12,000 more planes go overseas as a matter of "hard-headed self-interest."

"When these additional orders are approved—and I hope they will be—they will bring Great Britain's present orders for military planes from the United States to more than 26,000" the president reported.

The campaigning chief executive hammered away, however, on the promise to American fathers

'My' Ambassador

Joseph Kennedy, above, U. S. ambassador to Great Britain, who advocated re-election of President Roosevelt in a radio address, was the center of a political tangle today. President Roosevelt speaking in Boston last night, referred to Kennedy as "my ambassador." His Republican opponent, Wendell Willkie, commenting on the president's talk, said he believed any ambassador was the representative of a nation, not an individual.

CONFIDENT OF VOTE VICTORY

Candidate Promises To Speed Up Aid To Britain If He's Elected.

(By International News Service)

ABOARD WILLKIE TRAIN, EN ROUTE CAMDEN, N. J.—Wendell Willkie, who has declared that the United States may be involved in war by next April if President Roosevelt is re-elected, indicated today that he would outdistance the present administration in giving aid to Britain should he be elected to the White House next Tuesday.

Speaking to a crowd of 20,000 that jammed Rodney Square at Wilmington, Del., during the initial stop on his day's tour of Delaware, eastern Pennsylvania and invasion of New Jersey, the Republican presidential nominee exulted "We're going to win—we're going to win."

Referring to last night's Boston speech during which President Roosevelt said he had requested priority for a 12,000 British plane order placed with American industry, Willkie said:

"I was interested in what he had to say about the 12,000 planes to Britain. As a matter of fact if you elect me president, production will be so geared up that such an announcement won't even be news because it will be so insignificant in what America will do productively."

Last night Willkie stated flatly to a Baltimore audience:

"If you re-elect him (the president) you may expect war by April, 1941."

At Chester, Pa., Willkie told a throng of several thousand in the city's square that reports he is receiving from various sections of the country are extremely encouraging.

"I have one now that California is coming over (to the Re-

FACE CHARGES OF VANDALISM

13 on High School Football Squad Accused of Damaging Mansfield Home.

Thirteen members of the Mansfield Senior high school football squad were among 17 Senior high pupils who faced Judge C. J. Anderson in juvenile court today on charges of Halloween vandalism.

The 17 were rounded up by police last night and today after a can of tar and cement had been dumped on the porch of the residence of C. A. Hines, 41 Glenwood boulevard.

The football squad members included nine regular players, Police Chief M. K. Bates said.

Taken before Judge Anderson this morning, all were instructed to return to court at 11 a. m. Tuesday with their parents to arrange for payment of damages to the Hines home. Disposition of the cases will be made after damages are paid, Chief Bates said.

Four of the youths were rounded up last night soon after Hines reported his porch had been littered with rubbish. Investigation then disclosed that roofing tar had been poured over the porch along with a quantity of cement, causing considerable damage.

The four were picked up on

GET WARNING

Mansfield Merchants Told To Remove Sidewalk Edibles.

Mansfield merchants had been warned by police today to remove all obstructions from the sidewalks in front of their places of business.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates said officers were instructed to notify all business houses, regardless of the nature of the business, that a city ordinance prohibits placing merchandise on the sidewalk.

He said his action in enforcing the ordinance was prompted by complaints brought through the health department concerning the display of fruits and vegetables for sale on the walks.

A state health inspector who visited Mansfield several days ago called the attention of local health authorities to the matter, the chief said.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Dr. Lyman E. Jackson, junior dean of the Ohio State university college of agriculture, has been named president of South Dakota State college of agriculture and mechanic arts, university officials announced today.

OLD TIME WEST REVIVED AGAIN

Beer Parlor Patron Shoots At Young Singer's Feet.

DENVER —(AP)— John Mikowski, 37, of Buffalo, N. Y., was sitting in the Arcade beer parlor listening to 14-year-old Mrs. Merial Norman sing for a late crowd. He didn't like the song and told her to try another. "But I don't know it," Mrs. Norman protested.

In a manner reminiscent of the old days, Mikowski whipped out his six shooter and put a slug between her feet.

The judge let him take 125 days in jail instead of a $250 fine he didn't have.

They're Last on Draft Lists

Shown at top is Sam Holt, 25, 266½ North Mulberry street, last name on the draft list of Draft Board number one. At bottom is Emil R. Bocka, 22, of 378 Grace street, a worker at Westinghouse, who wound up at the bottom of Board number two's list. Chester B. Garett, 26, of Plymouth, was board number three's last man. Holt is the only one married.

Chances Slim That They'll Be Getting an Early Call

But Three Richland County Men at End of Three Draft Lists Would Be Ready to Answer Any Time.

By GEORGE P. SATTLER

Meet draftees Emil R. Bocka, Sam Holt and Chester B. Garett—the chances are they'll never be drafted to hear a top sergeant bellow or be blasted out of bed at 5 a. m. by an army bugle.

At least they have the best chance of any one in Richland county to help "keep the home fires burning." For Emil, Sam and Chester wound up in last place on each of the draft lists of the county's three draft boards.

But as far as this trio of Americans are concerned, it would have made no difference to them if they had all been in the number one spot.

"If I were able, I'd go tomorrow," Sam Holt, 266½ North Mulberry street, the only married man of the three, said.

"Conscription is the best thing that ever happened in this country. It's about time we're showing those guys over in Europe that we mean business," Holt added.

Holt, who is employed as a bar boy at the Leland hotel, is the father of four girls and has already served three years in the United States army.

"The only thing I wouldn't like about being drafted would be leaving my wife and four girls—but that's the only reason," Sam said.

Emil Bocka, 378 Grace street, who just turned 22 this month, was just as firm as Holt in his convictions that America should arm to the teeth.

"All other countries have compulsory military training, so why shouldn't we?" Brocka asserted. "We have more things in this country worth protecting than any of the others, anyway.

Bocka, like the others, also said that he would just as soon have been at the top of the list as at the bottom.

"If I had to go I would want to get it over with as soon as possible. Besides a year in the army wouldn't hurt any good American," he said.

Most philosophical of the trio is Chester B. Garett of Plymouth, who said he hadn't given conscription a great deal of thought.

"I feel about the same about being last as I would about being first," Garett said. "If you're called—well, you're just called, that's all."

Garett is 26, single, and has been working in a Plymouth foundry for the past nine years.

Holt was last man on the draft list of board number one; Bocka, number two, and Garett, number three.

GAS EXPLODES

Workman Hurt In Leap From Tank Car at State Garage.

Injured when he jumped from a tank car which caught fire while being unloaded, John Biggs, 44, of R. D. 4, Mansfield, was in the General hospital today suffering from a fractured leg.

Police said Biggs, a state highway department employe, sustained the injury when he leaped 15 feet to the ground as gas in the tank exploded. The car had just been emptied of tar.

The explosion occurred shortly after 8 p. m. at the state highway garage, 282 North Diamond street, and shook houses in the immediate vicinity. The blast was heard for several blocks.

Firemen from Companies Nos. 1, 2 and 4, who were called to extinguish the blaze said a kettle of tar close to the tank had ignited and that the fire had travelled up a pipe line to the car and caused the blast.

In another accident, Harry Love, 49, North Olmstead, a carpenter working on the new Pennsylvania railroad station, fell from the roof of the structure early this morning and sustained a leg fracture. He was removed to the hospital.

PLANES SAVED

Fire Damages Waco Aircraft Plant at Troy, O.

TROY—(NS)—Fire today caused $10,000 damage to the Waco Aircraft company plant at Troy and interrupted work on training ships the plant was turning out for the U. S. army.

Combustion among some oil rags was blamed for the blaze, which started in a paint room. Officials said many plane parts were destroyed but that four completed ships were wheeled out of the plant to safety.

IN ALBANIA

Ciano Arrives At Tirana, To Be Followed By Duce.

TIRANA, Albania—(NS)—Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano arrived in Tirana, capital of Fascist-occupied Albania, from Rome today.

(Editor's note: A dispatch from Rome said it was reported Premier Mussolini also will fly to Tirana within a few days.)

Fascist Aerial Attacks Appear Gaining Speed

Fifth Column Activity Worries Athens Government as New Precautions Ordered; Army Falls Back Slightly to New Line.

(By United Press)

ATHENS, Greece—Greek troops rallied and halted an Italian advance from the Albanian frontier, the high command reported today as the government enforced drastic precautions against fifth column activity on the home front.

Although Italian aerial operations appeared to be increasing with new attacks on Patras and Navpaktos, the high command said that the Greek defense forces had clung stubbornly to their positions nears the frontier during 24 hours of sporadic fighting.

Previously, it was admitted, the Greeks had fallen back slightly in line with the scheme of operations planned by the high command in the mountainous frontier area.

The slowness of the Italian attack as well as the officially announced aid being given by the British navy, which was reported to have landed forces on Greek isles, encouraged the Greek people and there was a general rush of volunteers to the army.

(Th Athens censor repeatedly interrupted telephone conversations when the United Press correspondent at Athens attempted to give details of military or naval movements, especially by the British. Previously, messages from Athens had indicated that neither British nor Italian forces had landed at Corfu but that the British navy and possibly British airplanes had gone into action elsewhere.)

Operations on Wednesday, the high command said, were on several sectors along the Epirus front after defense troops retired "in conformity with plans already drawn up."

Taking up new positions, the Greeks turned back several Fascist columns all day "by heavy fire" from entrenched mountain positions.

Other fronts were reported quiet, but the high command said that guerilla bands were operating with the enemy, apparently referring to Albanian or other mountain irregulars.

A Greek communique reported loss of one Greek plane which engaged Italian craft in battle over Albania.

The government took precautions on the home front while the army and air force fought along the border. All aliens were forbidden to appear in the streets after nightfall or to travel from one city to another without special permit.

(There had been hints of danger from fifth columnists, friendly to Germany and Italy, in Athens, and Rome had speculated on the possibility of an "agreement" by which Prince Paul, brother of King George II, would ascend the Greek throne on a pro-Axis policy.)

Italian airplanes were reported to have bombed Patras and Navpaktos, on the Gulf of Corinth today, killing eight persons. A home and a school house were destroyed at Navpaktos, it was reported.

British Land On Greek Islands

SALONIKA, Greece—(AP)—Britain, invoking the power of her Mediterranean fleet, was authoritatively reported to have landed troops on strategic Greek islands as this little kingdom's hardy men fought to stem Italian troops pounding at her northwest frontier.

For military reasons, the islands where the landings were said to have been made under the big guns of British warships could not be identified by name, it was stated. The number of troops involved and the nature of the equipment they brought with them likewise were undisclosed.

Occupation of the islands, however, presumably would give the British bases from which to launch the aid they have promised their newest ally.

DEFENSE: Greece Depends on Metaxas Line to Halt Enemy

(By Associated Press)

BUDAPEST, Hungary—Greece pins here initial hopes of resisting Italian invasion from Albania on natural fortresses of her mountainous northwest augmented by the extensive system of "the Metaxas line."

The Metaxas line, named after Premier John Metaxas, runs the length of the Albanian-Greek frontier from the Ionian coast to Lake Ventrok—about 100 miles as the crow flies—and stretches on along the Yugoslav and Bulgarian frontiers to the Turkish border.

The original Metaxas line was directed chiefly against Bulgaria.

But when Italy seized Albania in April, 1939, the Greek government built new fortifications, at a reported cost of more than $6,000,000, to defend her northwest frontier against the new threat.

Details of the line are secret but it is believed to consist of strategically-placed concrete fortifications, earthworks, pillboxes and barbed wire tank-traps—all designed to supplement the natural defenses afforded by the rugged upland country.

Special attention is said to have been devoted to the old fortified town of Ioannina (Janina), which commands two of the four principal routes from southern Albania and which already has emerged as a key Italian objective in the very opening of the invasion.

The mountains make northwestern Greece a natural walled fortress and apparently the Greek army's general plan is to force attackers into narrow mountainous bottle-necks.

TARGETS: Ostend Docks Hit By British Bombs In Raids

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—The British air ministry said today that the RAF's bombers had scored many hits overnight on the docks and ship berths in the "invasion" harbor of Ostend, which the Germans had repaired following earlier bombings.

Pilots reported the targets were bombed "freely" and that there was a heavy explosion after every second bomb burst.

Debris was thrown high in the air, the ministry said.

The RAF squadrons flew straight up the Belgian and Dutch coast to the German North sea shore, blasting at docks in Antwerp and Flushing and attacking the big German naval base at Emden, in Germany proper.

Cherbourg was reported to have been attacked in daylight operations yesterday, and the air ministry news service said dockside buildings were hit and a heavy salvo of bombs dropped among four torpedo boats cruising about 20 miles offshore.

The RAF also attacked German-held channel ports and communications in western Germany in the

Roosevelt and Bricker Win In Senior High Vote

If the pupils of Mansfield Senior high school had their way about it, Franklin D. Roosevelt would have his third term and John W. Bricker would retain the office of governor.

In the mock election held at the high school yesterday, Roosevelt polled 552 votes to Wendell L. Willkie's 411, while Bricker copped 561 votes to Davey's 385.

Yesterday's "election" was sponsored by the Social Science department and was run off entirely by pupils.

Last Friday pupils wishing to participate in the election were required to register, giving their name and home room number. They were then divided into two wards, with two precincts to each ward.

Yesterday the pupils went to their precinct voting place to mark their ballots. Each of the voting places was manned by pupils, who acted as precinct workers and challengers. The entire election was run exactly as the real election will be run on Nov. 5.

DEADLINE FALLS

700 Applications Received From Absentee Voters.

With nearly 700 applications for sick and absentee voters' ballots already received, the Richland county board of elections prepared for a last-minute rush today before the deadline for requesting the ballots at 6:30 p. m. tonight.

No voters can cast absentee ballots at the election board headquarters after tonight and no more requests will be filled. Sick and absentee ballots that have been mailed must be marked and returned to the election board by noon Friday.

The total number of sick and absentee ballots is expected to equal or top the record set four years ago in the county.

The election board today was instructed by Secretary of State George M Neffner to rule out all presidential ballots that are marked for a "straight ticket" on one ballot and in front of the names of president and vice president candidates on the other.

LONDON — (NS) — Newspapers in London today gave prominent display to dispatches on President Roosevelt's announcement that he seeks to furnish Britain with another 12,000 warplanes, bringing the total American-built aircraft destined for Britain to 26,000. Official British circles received the news with unconcealed enthusiasm.

Goblins and Ghosts to March Tonight In Halloween Parade

Tonight the "goblins, ghosts and beasties" will come out of their mysterious haunts and roam the streets of Mansfield, and with them will be funny folks who will join in the merrymaking.

The community Halloween celebration, sponsored by the American Legion, gets under way at 7 p. m. when paraders meet at the corner of Park avenue west and Sturges avenue. The street between that intersection and the Legion home will be blocked off to permit floats to park there before the parade starts.

Walter L. Beckley, general chairman, and Arthur Busch, marshall of the parade will start the sections, the floats and the band units. The parade will move east on Park avenue to Mulberry, north on Mulberry to Fourth, east on Fourth to Main and south on Main to Central park. The column will parade around the park and come to rest at the judges stand on Main at the west side of the park.

Beckley said today that every masker must be in his or her proper classifiication in order to compete for prizes. Each class will be designated on a placard at the Coffee is being surrounded by glamour these days. A new "glamourized" container, in which coffee is vacuum-packed in glass, has just been put on the market. The container has a scientific reseal feature which hermetically reseals the jar after use. And gone are cut fingers, since the jar is easy to open, and the cap, though sealed tightly, unscrews easily. Another advantage is visibility, since the housewife can see the grind through the glass.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills. Used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Beware Coughs Following Flu

After the flu is over and gone, the cough that follows may develop into chronic bronchitis if neglected. Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

LACK OF FUNDS SLOWS AIRPORT DEVELOPMENT

First Major Improvement Since 1928 To Be Undertaken Next Week.

(Editor's Note—This is the fourth of a series of signed articles by city officials explaining the need for passage of the one-mill levy at the Nov. 5 election and how the levy will benefit their respective departments. Today's article deals with operations at the municipal airport.)

By DR. L. D. BONAR
(Chairman Richland county chapter N. A. A. airport committee)

First improvement since 1928 at Mansfield's municipal airport will be started next week by the state highway department which will develop a roadside park on the port property.

In 1927 the field was purchased by the city for $15,000. Another $15,600 was raised by popular subscription for improvements. The following year $10,000 was spent by the city These improvements accomplished by Reformatory labor and equipment borrowed from the state and county highway departments consisted of laying twenty-four miles of tile drainage. Many fills and considerable grading was done.

The field proper is in essentially the same condition as it was in 1928. The only further work done was about three weeks of Relief labor on F. E. R. A. in 1932 and about two months labor shortly afterward by C. W. A. This all was hand labor except that a power shovel was used for about ten days. For the two relief agencies a total of $136,000 which was to have completed the field was alloted. However, only a small amount of that figure was actually spent on the airport, as it was felt that it was needed on other city projects, such as sewers and streets.

No other work was done on the landing area except by those men who were flying and gave their own money and labor to keep the field in such shape that it could be used by itinerant fliers. For the past two years the county has lent its power roller for spring rolling, the gasoline being furnished by the city

In 1939, the city drilled a well and furnished labor and machinery for putting a driveway and parking mat in front of the hangars. The cost of the material was defrayed by private contribution.

At various times throughout this period several federal projects have been considered but none has developed except that with N. Y. A. labor, the state highway department is starting a roadside park for improvement of the parking area and providing water, restroom facilities and shelters for the public. This work is to be started November 2nd at the cost of about $10,000 to the highway department but no cost to the city.

However, the field will remain the back yard to a highway park unless some money can be made available for its improvement and air passengers, express and mail which is coming to this section of Ohio as evidenced by requests of two companies in recent weeks will probably land at Ashland where citizens are working hard for improvement and enlargement of their field, and aircraft companies, who have investigated our field and moved on to those which have better facilities will keep Mansfield barren of these new industries.

We feel we have the answer to putting Mansfield another long step toward its rightful place in air transportation While $25,000, the airport's share of the one mill levy over a period of five years is not so much, when matched with federal funds it may be enough to finish the work. Previously contemplated federal projects bogged down because the city had no money to match government aid.

Mansfield needs this airport for its further development—in fact, to hold its own in competition with other cities its size. Whose fields (which can be used by all types of airplanes) are no longer liabilities but pay good returns on their investment, through air line landing fees, hangar rent, lease of land for aircraft factories.

Let us give our community a chance to keep up with the progress of the nation by voting for the one mill levy.

TALKING ROBOT GROWS MATURE WITH VOCABULARY OF 77 WORDS

PITTSBURGH—(AP)—From an engineer's idea 13 years ago, the mechanical man has developed today into a glamourous robot with a vocabulary of 77 words.

On Sept. 14, 1927, the first mechanical man Televox, had taken concrete form in the mind of an electrical engineer, and he has been followed by two other creations—Willie Vocalite and Elektro.

Constructed as a dramatic way of illustrating methods of electrical control, these robots have been a symbol of the "constant and rapid evolution of such devices as relays, photo-cells, and complicated electrical circuits in the automatic control of machinery and in the performance of routine tasks," according to Joseph Melton Barnett, "mechano authropologist."

The first robot, Televox, who no longer is living, was limited in his actions to raising a telephone receiver, waving his arms, and operating switches that controlled machines.

Born speechless, he later learned two simple sentences. Unable to understand spoken orders, Televox went into action only when he heard a proper combination of whistle signals.

But Willie Vocalite, created in 1932, was a great advancement over Televox. Willie was able to speak from the day he was born, and he later added singing to his accomplishments which included firing a gun, saluting and smoking. These tricks he demonstrated in his 100,000 miles of travels, which included a trip to Hawaii. After a face-lifting and a revision of his wire nervous system in 1939, Willie went to the Golden Gate International Exposition.

The glamour robot, however, is Elektro, created and tutored by Barnett. Now two years old, Elektro speaks distinctly 77 words; counts on his fingers; walks, moves his head, arms and fingers, distinguishes colors and smokes cigarettes.

SHE NOTICED A DIFFERENCE

when she used Pillsbury's Best...
Maybe you will, too!

"I Found Pillsbury's Best Gives Me White, Light Baking," says Mrs. H. Kraschnewski of Milwaukee

"I learned this: Pillsbury's Best has a whiteness and lightness that's reflected in the things I make—especially rolls. They're white and light and tender—no more heaviness or 'grayness'!

"Also, with Pillsbury's Best my cakes are fluffy and moist—never dry or hard. After seeing the improvement it made in my baking, I know Pillsbury's Best is best!"

Just WHY does flour make such a difference?

For example, why does one cake come out coarse and uneven in texture, heavy, dry, and "unbaked" looking—and another come out light, even textured, and temptingly golden-brown?

You'd understand if you could see what happens when we test wheat—how one wheat may make much better flour than another. We pay thousands of dollars extra every year for the finest wheats for Pillsbury's Best—then we blend them carefully, mill them, and test the milling every hour, to make sure you get the finest flour for everything you bake.

LOOK! VALUABLE PREMIUMS Extra Value for Pillsbury Users

CHAPTER XXVI.

"Are we out without Sandy?" Philip said, falling into step beside Jocelyn as they turned toward the clubhouse.

"We haven't seen either her or your mother this morning."

"I'm going to take a shower," said Philip. "You going right home? . . . Good. I'll follow you come up to Spotty's room and we can talk. Been thinking over what I said to you yesterday?"

"I've been trying to believe that you said it." Jocelyn looked up seriously from under the brim of a new hat. For a second he looked down at her with a thoughtful half-smile on his face, then she felt his fingers catch hers in an instant's grip.

"I said it all right," he said, and Jocelyn had those words to ponder as she went home. Just that much certitude she had wanted during the long hours of the night. Now that she had it, her heart was already making fresh demands. She was sure; but she wanted to be more sure, to have everyone know, to have it settled beyond dispute or question. These women would laugh at the mere idea of Phil Fordyce seriously considering marriage with the governess. They must not be allowed to laugh. It must all be settled, and quickly.

"Oh, I couldn't ever do anything else now!" Jocelyn said to herself, trembling, as she and Norma went into the big house and turned toward the great vault of the stairway. As they did so a woman began to descend, stopped, assummed a pose and bent a smile of incredible sweetness upon Norma. A slender, girlish-looking woman with soft lustless fair hair, dyed to a color that was not quite gold, not quite brown, braided about her head, and a soft, powder-blue gown of filmy silk wrapped tightly about her body and buttoned snugly up her long throat to her chin, and spreading and flowing in waves about her knees and feet.

"Norma, darling!" said this exquisite apparition.

"Mama!" Norma said, stupefied. She ran up the stairs, and the lady put her arms about her and kissed her.

"Precious," said Janet, Countess von Sturnberg, "I got worried about you and your daddy, and I wondered what on earth they were doing to you! I've been thinking about Daddy ever since he and I had a little talk in New York a few weeks ago, and wondering if perhaps Hill Acres wasn't the place I belong, after all! From what darling Granny and our marvelous Sandy have been writing me I haven't felt one bit happy about my big girl, so here I am, and if Daddy'll forgive me I think I'm ready to begin all over again!"

Jocelyn felt bitterly wounded, felt completely left out of it. From the moment Norma's mother appeared there was nothing for her to do except obliterate herself as much as possible.

Sandy, on the other hand, went into Mrs. Fordyce's room immediately after the countess and Norma had disappeared therein, and when Philip came home he was immediately summoned to join them. Jocelyn, loitering in Norma's sitting room, through the half-open door saw him come upstairs and went impulsively across the hall to meet him.

"What's this Brooks was telling me? Janet here?" he said sharply. "Did you see her?"

"Yes, I was in the hall with Norma when she came downstairs."

"What'd she say?" He was too deeply disturbed to smile at her, to say anything that would make the troubled situation easier for Jocelyn.

"Just that she had been worried about Norma, and wanted to see—I think she said what we were doing to her."

"Great Scott!" he said in angry desperation, under his breath. "This is my mother's work."

"And Sandy's," Jocelyn couldn't help saying.

"I suppose she had a finger in it, too. It makes it nice for Norma!"

He said nothing more, immediately crossing to his mother's bedroom. Jocelyn stood irresolute for a minute; then she went back into the sitting room.

She had always imagined Norma's mother to be a hard, flashy woman; flippant, insensitive, selfish. It was a shock to discover her in this gentle, gracious person with the caressing soft voice, the graceful slender body, the appealing eyes. Jocelyn felt suddenly forlorn and helpless. She had no defense against this sort of thing.

The countess had decided quite suddenly upon the Western trip, Jocelyn knew. She had heard her say affectionately to Norma, as the two had preceded her up the big stairway, "I'd no more idea of coming than you had a' this time yesterday, sweet. But I had a letter from Granny that made me so unhappy . . ."

They had both ignored her. Natural enough, a mother and daughter reunited after months of separation. They would ignore her from now on. Why not? She had no place in the story. Sandy hated her, and unquestionably the countess was all ready to dislike her heartily, to resent her having ever been made a member of the household. Philip, trying to protect his child's interests, would be helpless, and Granny would always be for the line of least resistance, for the easiest course. Norma might say a word in defense of her beloved companion, but nobody would hesitate for a second to drown out her voice.

So Jocelyn loitered about the room in a miserable state of indecision and apprehension. What were they all saying, in that room across the hall? What attitude could Philip possibly take toward this woman who had deserted him for another man, fifteen years earlier, and who had twice married since? She had felt no maternal yearnings toward Norma when the poor child had been shuttled from school to school, from governess to governess. She had gone her giddy way then. Now, just as the child was developing a natural affection for her father, just as she was finding a suitable group of friends, this mother must turn up to wreck the whole scheme once again!

Norma's reaction to it would be all-important. Jocelyn was not long left in doubts as to what that would be. About an hour after the conference in Mrs. Fordyce's room began, she heard voices, opening closing doors, and Norma's voice in the hall.

When the girl came in she was in the excited, talkative mood that Jocelyn especially disliked. She held out a hand upon which blazed a magnificent ring of two pearls and an oblong diamond.

"Look what Mama's given me, Jotsy! Did you ever see such a rock! My grandfather gave it to her when she graduated, and she had it reset for me. My dear, such goings-on! It looks as if my delightful parents were going to agree about me for once in their lives. A coming-out party in Honolulu this summer, instead of next fall, with people coming from all corners of the earth, China and London and everywhere! Mama says she's tired of worrying about me, and of course I am a handful, consequently the entire committee is going to camp on little Norma's trail — imagine the excitement when everyone around here gets news of the great reconciliation!"

Jocelyn could make nothing of this jargon. It was Norma at her worst; Norma slipped back to the spoiled child of a few months ago; chattering glibly of what she knew nothing, tossing off airy references to distinguished persons Jocelyn did not know, elated with her own position and power, wild for freedom.

"Norma." It was Sandy's most triumphant, smoothest voice from the doorway. She came in, elderly and fustling, for the moment ignoring Jocelyn completely, speaking only to the younger girl. "My dear," she said, "I think Mama will want to sleep in here with you tonight. Did you speak to Mattress about the change? We are moving you back to your old quarters, which are quite ready," Sandy continued, turning to Jocelyn without looking at her. "The countess naturally wants to be with Norma. So I think, Matress, if you'll see one of the girls about getting the room Miss Britton has been using in order, we'll move the countess in as soon as you're through. Have them help Miss Britton move her things back to her old room, will you? My dear child," the old governess added to Norma affectionately, "This is exciting, isn't it? To have our Mama suddenely appear with all these beautiful plans."

"We're probably not sailing Saturday, Jotsy," Norma announced importantly, following Jocelyn to her room, as Jocelyn went in and began to gather her things together. "Mama wants to go down to Honolulu for three months, in a few weeks, and have my coming-out party there, with all the guests—about two hundred of them — invited to come down and stay two weeks! Can you imagine it, beach parties and dances and swimming! Mama says nobody ever did that before, and it'll make it different from any other party that ever has been!"

Jocelyn felt helpless and confused, uncertain what to do, what action would be wisest now. She walked restlessly about her rooms, now determined to pack up all her belongings and leave for her aunt's house in Sausalito, now fiercely determined not to be worsted at this first encounter but to wait and see how matters would shape themselves.

The Sunday afternoon faded into darkness, and night came down with chilling fog from the hills. There was a tap at Jocelyn's door at half past seven o'clock, and Lena came in with a supper tray, and stopped to light her fire.

"Et get colt," observed Lena.

"It is cold," Jocelyn agreed. She was sitting in a big chair now, with a book. The sudden warmth of the blazing logs was grateful indeed. Lena drew the curtains; the room assumed the snug, homelike air that Jocelyn remembered having loved when first she came to it.

Another tap at the door, while Lena was still busy. Jocelyn's heart rose. It must be Norma!

But instead it was Miss Sanderson who stepped in; inclining her head sideways with a bleak imitation of a frozen smile that was characteristic of her and that Jocelyn particularly disliked, and not meeting Jocelyn's eyes as she sidled to the chair opposite her. With a preliminary "hem!" as sharp as a bullet, Sandy was ready for battle.

HANDY BOX

Even in the small, utilitarian things women's looks are being safeguarded today. Take the new little tin box for medicinal tablets, like aspirin, which has just been introduced. It opens with a snap by merely pressing the back of the box and thus prevents broken fingernails and ruined manicures and tempers.

FARMER ADVERTISES FOR WIFE, TURNS DOWN 5,000 APPLICANTS

CANDIA, N. H.—(INS)—Joseph Cronan lives alone and doesn't like it.

The 50-year-old farmer wants a wife who can cook and has advertised for a mate in various newspapers throughout the country.

His wife wanted ads, which have appeared in newspapers for the past three years, have netted him more than 5,000 replies from women anxious to share the 180-acre farm. The farmhouse has 11 rooms.

To date, none has come up to expectations.

In fact, Cronan, who admits he may be too critical, has offered a $100 bonus to anyone who will introduce him to the "right woman."

Cronan has ruled out women who cannot make applesauce, sponge cake and other delicacies.

Any woman replying to the advertisement receives a form letter from the bachelor. It reads:

"No carfares. No expenses paid not going to your town. Are you penniless. Give ability, exp. gen. view life and your wants. Are you the usual lazy woman poor cook saucey. Whom do you live with your son children etc. Ever live on a farm. How many times married Send photo Are you lame, deaf, ailments, etc State faults Are you good disposition. Can you cook; include age, height, weight. Write life history or call. Cig. liquor user not wanted. Very hard ans 100 letters which say little. No argument wanted. Send sample bread made by you.

"Joe Cronan, Island Road, Candia, N. H."

STATION FORTRESS

TOCCOA, Ga.—(U.P.)—The Georgia State Patrol's new sub-station here wasn't built for a fortress but it could serve as one if the occasion arose. The five-room building is built in one piece and made entirely of steel. It was constructed in the nearby R. G. LeTourneau road machinery plant.

WANT SPEED? TRY BALLOON

Students Send One Up: It Goes 575 Miles in 15 Hours.

LA JUNTA, Colo.—(AP)—The La Junta high school chemistry class decided to send up a toy balloon, inflated with natural gas, to see how far it would float.

Several days later they received a letter from Howard Mantzey of Dawn, Mo., who had found the balloon near his home the day after it was sent from La Junta.

The class figured the balloon made a flight of 575 miles in 15 hours or less and that its speed averaged at least 40 miles per hour.

Church memberships in the U. S. number about 52,000,000 persons.

THEATERS

Four in Search of Success.

"Angels Over Broadway," acclaimed as one of the most tenderly human romances of the year, co-stars Rita Hayworth and Douglas Fairbanks, jr. The film, playing through Friday at the Ohio, tells the story of four people in search of a "break," a grafter, a cafe entertainer, a thief and a drunken playwright. Thomas Mitchell has the outstanding character role as the playwright, and John Qualen also has a leading role.

Father Heads the Family.

"Father is a Prince," the comedy, playing Friday only at the Madison, tells the story of a crotchety old man who makes his family's life miserable through his small miserly ways although there is deep affection under the veneer. The cast includes Grant Mitchell, Nana Bryant, John Litel and Lee Patrick. Humor and amusing situations season an interesting plot.

Story of Horseracing.

Robert Young and Maureen O'Sullivan have the romantic leads in "Sporting Blood," the story of Virginia horse racing and of a reawakened feud between two old Southern families. This picture is playing Friday and Saturday at the Ritz. Interesting highlights of the film are racing shots taken at the Santa Anita race track and the Riverside fairgrounds. "Flaming Lead" is the co-feature with Ken Maynard in the lead.

Halloween Party Tonight.

A Halloween party at the Park has been announced for tonight. There will be contests, a costume parade and refreshments In addition will be the double bill, "Bullet Code" with George O'Brien and Virginia Vale, and "Winter Carnival," starring Ann Sheridan and Richard Carlson. The latter is a film romance of life and love on the Dartmouth college campus during the hectic period of carnival time.

Mystery and Western.

Playing Friday and Saturday at the Majestic is "Girls Under 21," starring Paul Kelly, Rochelle Hudson and several others, and "West of Abilene" with Charles Starrett in the lead. The former picture tells of a high school teacher in a tenement district who falls in love with a gangster's wife, who is finally proven innocent of a crime blamed on her.

RETURN RAID

Martins 'Blitz' Fire Truck After Department Chases Birds.

GOLDSBORO, N. C.—(AP)—When residents tired of disturbance created by thousands of martins they appealed to the fire department.

The firemen made two successive raids on the birds with high pressure hose. The martins not only held their own, but counter-attacked. Two squads of martins camped on the hook and ladder truck in the fire station. When a third squad appeared the firemen appealed for "heavier guns."

PENNY SAVER.

WATONGA, Okla. —(AP)— Twenty-four years of hunting and saving have given C. E. Fitzwater, a rural mail carrier, a unique collection of pennies, with the exception of six years, he has one from every yearly minting dating back to 1793. Missing are those for 1783, 1804-08-09-11-77.

PACKAGE MAKING

One of the fastest growing of American industries is the manufacturing of packages. Twenty-five years ago hardly anything you bought came in packages. Candy came uncovered in the shape of sticky balls, or sticks. Coffee was sold out of a bin, and even crackers were picked by hand from the cracker barrel. Today, practically everything comes in packages—from the ten-cent handkerchief enclosed in cellophane to the luscious-looking fruits and vegetables in glass containers.

AIRCRAFTS LEAD STOCK MARKET IN EARLY RISE

Commerce Department Review Discloses Upward Trend In Manufacturers' Orders.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Aircraft led the stock market on an early advance in today's trading.

A constructive market interpretation was placed on the summary of the commerce department disclosing new orders by manufacturers in September reached a peak for the year and were 25 per cent above August.

Notice was taken of the American Iron & Steel Institute announcement that employment in the steel field rose to an average of 565,000 workers in September against 560,000 in August and 502,000 a year ago.

Holders of merchandising shares found encouragement in forecasts of a 10 per cent rise in this winter's retail sales over the same period last year.

OSTEND DOCKS BOMBED AGAIN

Invasion Port Proves Target of RAF Fliers; Other Cities Raided.

night, the ministry said, in spite of adverse weather.

British Speed Boats Repulsed

BERLIN —(AP)— The German high command reported today Nazi artillery on the Flanders coast had repelled British speedboats creeping close to shore under cover of a thick channel haze and probably had destroyed one.

Describing German air raids on Britain, it said explosions and fires had been observed in industrial plants and docks on both sides of the Thames, and that British west coast ports and central England armament centers, especially at Coventry, had been successfully attacked.

The high command said the British lost 13 planes yesterday and acknowledged loss of five of its own.

German officials reported wintry weather conditions drove British bombers home early after scattered raids over Germany last night.

Many Trapped in Bombed Building

LONDON —(AP)— An undetermined number of persons were reported trapped in the basement of a large apartment house hit by a Nazi aerial bomb last night.

There were more than 150 persons in the basements of the building when the bomb exploded, but they were spread out in groups, and only those immediately under the damaged block were trapped.

Fire hampered the rescuers for a while, but two women were brought out alive. One body was recovered.

In a tenement district, a mother and three children were reported trapped.

A lone German air raider opening the daylight attacks on England dived within a few hundred feet of the ground to drop high explosive bombs on a southeast inland town.

Shops and offices were demolished and a number of casualties caused.

The 54th successive night of German air raiding of London tapered off into complete silence early today and although 47 districts of England were bombed the night's attacks were described as among the lightest since the aerial blitzkrieg began.

Meanwhile, Health Minister Malcolm MacDonald announced that 563,000 children have now been removed to the country from bomb-smashed sections of the empire capital. About 279,000 remain to be transferred. The famous center court at Wimbledon, where American tennis stars have helped make sports history, has been damaged by German air raiders British authorities disclosed today.

V. H. Lodde, chairman of the judges will award the prizes in cash. Legionnaires will assist city police in maintaining order along the route. They will also assist Beckley and Busch in getting paraders in their proper classifications. Beckley said that while this group classification would separate families competing in different groups, that special care would be given to children in the parade and they can find their parents at the judges stand.

Total cash prizes will amount to $170, the gift of the Legion, and will be awarded in 11 contests.

WOMAN GUARDS FOOD COSTS

Member of Defense Commission Acts to Prevent Price Rise From 'Scarcity.'

WASHINGTON—(AP)—What the housewife pays this winter for her husband's supper may depend largely upon the success "Aunt Hit" makes of a job unique in the professional and industrial progress of women.

"Aunt Hit" is Miss Harriet Elliott, the only woman on the National Defense Advisory commission.

Her task is to see that Mr and Mrs Average Consumer don't have to pay 'out-of-line" prices for food clothing and rent as Uncle Sam shops for cannon and airplanes

When the Defense Commission was discussing the proposed placement of a several million dollar order of army blankets, according to an assistant Miss Elliott listened to the discussions and then asked

"When are these blankets to be delivered?"

"In the fall," she was told.

"Then the consumers' guardian went into action. In the fall, she knew, was the time Mrs. housewife would be buying blankets—for the home, for the children going off to school. If Mrs. Housewife and Uncle Sam bought their blankets at one time, it might cause an apparent blanket shortage.

Miss Elliott wanted to know if it was necessary for the army to have the entire order at once—military needs have right of way—but assured it was not she, suggested the purchase be staggered This was done

Scientist Says They Eat To Be Healthy And Happy.

COLUMBIA Mo —(AP)— The reason a pig enjoys eating is that he likes to be happy and healthy, says J W Burch of the Missouri College of Agriculture, who has made a study of the eating habits of swine

Pigs that are well fed and housed in clean surroundings usually have the vitality necessary to throw off disease that might be contracted by animals on a "maintenance diet" only, says Burch.

CONCRETE

Concrete pavements in Ohio carry traffic ranging from 300 vehicles to over 30,000 per day. Throughout that entire range, concrete roads—designed for the load—are providing continuously satisfactory and economical service.

Whether for a lightly-traveled rural road or a heavily traveled inter-urban highway, concrete offers definite points of superiority. Concrete is long lasting... Its low annual cost (first cost plus depreciation plus maintenance) makes it the real "low cost" road... It is smooth riding—skid resistant... Offers high visibility at night... Maintenance costs are only one half to one-fifth as much as for other surfaces

Altogether, it costs you less to enjoy the safety, comfort and satisfaction of driving on concrete.

U. S. LEARNING DEFENSE FROM LONDON BATTLE

Preparation For Total War Made Necessary By Aerial Attack.

By W. B. RAGSDALE

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The battle of London is having a direct effect upon the plans for defending American cities.

Original ideas were built around the theory that in war it was military objectives that would have to be defended. Navy yards, army posts and certain munitions manufacturing plans would have to be defended. But civilian population would not be seriously endangered.

But Warsaw was wiped out.

Dutch cities were flattened.

Night after night, bombs are sprinkled on civilians in London. The British have developed a kidding slogan which says: "Join the army and escape the war."

What America is working for now is a total defense to meet a total war.

Just as in London, civilians would be called upon in great numbers to form an air raid protection unit, to operate signals and make certain black-outs were effective. Police and fire departments would form an integral part of the defense plan.

Already, the war department is working out a series of pamphlets dealing with air raid warnings, air raid shelters, how to administer first aid, how to defend yourself against chemical attack. The civilian conservation corps, along with other organizations, is teaching its men first aid.

The war department has drafted and is offering private manufacturers plans for the protection of their plants. These cover such things as locating the plants so as to take advantage of the natural defenses offered by terrain, installing safe guards against chemicals, puttting in bomb proof shelters for personnel, and arranging for black-outs so complete no gleam of light will leak through.

The United States housing authority has been experimenting with bomb shelters. Already it is recommended against reinforced floors above cellars. They have not proven very successful in Europe. And no pillbox that stands above ground has been able to withstand a direct hit from a bomb.

These are only the outer phases of the problem of air defense, a problem which in these days of lightning developments may turn bottom up over night.

Less than ten months ago, army defense experts were still talking with surprise of bombers that would travel 300 miles an hour. Now the speed has leaped far beyond that figure.

Then they were mentioning dive bombing as a thing which had been of some value in Poland. Since then it has fought the battles of France.

Then they were speaking of bombs dropped at 15,000 feet. Now they come from so high up in the sky that watchers on the ground cannot see the plane.

All of these developments have set defense tacticians to hunting for new answers. Detection and warning devices must be sharpened so that pursuit planes can be gotten into the air and intercept the bombers. Aiming mechanism must search out planes that cannot be seen. Guns must reach higher and higher into the air.

BETTER PLANES

Study of Grounded Nazi Craft Favors U. S. Types.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A plane by plane comparison with Britain's Royal Air Force and Nazi aircraft shot down in England has convinced American authorities that warplanes now rolling off production lines in the United States are definitely superior to anything in use abroad.

In the all-important factor of speed, informed sources say both fighters and bombers produced in this country are the world's best, at least two of the former being capable of more than 400 miles an hour.

Officials say the advantages attributed to Uncle Sam's military aircraft had their price, however—the time devoted to the experimentation and testing which produced them and which Germany, and later Britain, devoted to getting less efficient types into mass production.

Tahiti Business Men Believe Copra Trade Can Be Restored.

PAPEETE, Tahiti — (AP) — Business men here believe present world conditions offer the United States an opportunity to revive its copra trade with the French colony.

They believe there must be a reduction of tariff on the product, following which sales would build up a dollar exchange permitting the islanders to buy American goods.

Copra, the dried meat of the coconut, is used in soap.

SYDNEY, Australia—(U.P.)—Perhaps Australia's most unusual wartime regulation has been the prohibition of use of any foreign language over the gorvernment-operated telephone system. "If a person cannot talk English, he cannot use the telephone," is the order. Even French is barred.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1940.

Those egg-throwing episodes may be merely a liberal interpretation of the Hatch Act.

This is national Pay-Your-Doctor week—but you needn't bother about it if you paid him last week.

With election day, Armistice day and a couple of Thanksgivings, November also promises to be a lively month.

'Roorback' Stage of Campaign

DISTRESSING as the thought may be to decent people, some of the hoodlumism already injected into this national campaign by egg-throwing zealots justifies a warning to voters against the last-minute efforts sometimes made by unprincipled politicians to start a variety of rumors intended to reflect unfavorably on opposition candidates.

This practice had its start in the presidential campaign of 1844 and effected the introduction of the word "roorback" into the dictionary, with the meaning, "a defamatory falsehood spread for political effect."

Fortunately the "roorback" went into disrepute in later years but was revived on several occasions to meet peculiar "emergencies," more particularly under the political boss rule of large cities being depended upon to overcome opposition majorities in the state outside of its metropolitan center—as in New York City and Chicago.

It may be safely assumed that long before these closing days of the campaign ample time has been given for close scrutiny of the public and private lives and records of all candidates for important public offices, and that all really vital issues have already been discussed.

This being the case, voters should be slow to believe any new charges they may hear from now on, or to allow their vote to be influenced thereby.

Much 'Learning', Little 'Wisdom'

LEARNING has failed, says Dr. Edwin S. Burdell, director of Cooper Union, in his annual report. "There was probably never a time in the world's history when there was so much learning and so little wisdom, when there was so much information, so many techniques and skills, and so little use made of them for the common good."

Many thoughtful people must be thinking lately along the same line, as they see man's mastery over nature used to destroy man himself. A generation or two like the present, with power and knowledge used increasingly for predatory war, might kill off the ablest and best of mankind and return the human race to savagery.

"Society itself must exercise the controls," says Dr. Burdell, "and the will to make science the servant of man must proceed from an inner righteousness and from a spiritual enlightenment of society as a whole. Science and research should stand for more than inventions and discoveries."

The fault is not in these great inventions that are used perversely against the interests of mankind. The fault is in man himself. Evidently he isn't good enough—or not a sufficient number are good enough—to be trusted with the powers now available. And it can't be only Hitler and Mussolini and Stalin who are responsible for all this wholesale deviltry and base use of human powers. The present generation is not wise enough, not friendly enough, not generous enough, to be trusted with the powers at hand for its use.

If science cannot save us, many people think, religion might. Perhaps what the world needs, far more than weapons, is a great spiritual revival.

City Needs Free Parking Lots

AFTER parking meters have been installed on a number of downtown streets there will be increased requirement for the free municipal parking lots which have been discussed for a number of years.

There is a need, of course, for the all-day parking of hundreds of cars used by persons employed in stores and offices and curb space within convenient walking distance is inadequate to accommodate all of these cars.

While metered space will solve the problem for short-time parkers and much two-hour free space will still be available to local and visiting motorists, the matter of securing one or more good-sized lots for free parking within a block or two of the business district should not be unnecessarily delayed.

Century of Railroad Progress

RAILROADS are in the movies again. A new railroad film has been produced by the Association of American Railroads, as the sixth of a series to acquaint the public with the railroad industry and the part it plays in our economic life.

The present film, which is called "Behind the Scenes," goes back a hundred years, to those days when railroads didn't exist and people paid as much as four times the value of goods in freight costs alone. Then came the railroads. With them came a bloodless and salutary revolution. New markets were created with their speed. Consumers were brought within quick reach of producers; new trails were blazed into the wilderness of the West, and a nation was united with steel bands.

If a pioneer of the pony-express days had been told that one day it would be possible to ship a ton of freight a mile for a single penny, he'd have regarded his informer as insane. Yet that is the average freight cost paid today.

The railroads' story is told against the story of our basic medium of transport. It is the story of private enterprise—of the achievements of free men. It is the story of a philosophy of life and government.

Those Larger Youngsters

A CIVIC theater group, looking for a cast that called for "nine school girls," was unable to find youngsters to fill the roles. The young girls who tried out were the right ages, but they all proved to be much taller and heavier than the popular idea of the average girls that they wouldn't have been at all convincing in the parts.

The producer finally had to cast his "school children" from a group of older girls who were superior to looking the parts in height and weight.

This, it appears, is one of the problems a new age must face as a result of American prosperity, fine food, and vitamins.

Word comes that the remains of a six-horned monster has been unearthed in Wyoming. Fortunately the present models have fewer horns.

THOSE SAME OLD DECOYS

Listen World!

Helping Hitler

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

I'M IN THE DOG-HOUSE. All because I told Young America—and its collective Mom 'n' Dad—that they couldn't kick the law in the teeth. No, I'm not sore. Just plenty concerned. As you should be when you've heard the story. Here it is:

About 20 years ago, a fifteen-year-old California youngster hanged himself. Reason? He hadn't been "bid" for his High School Fraternity. Stupid, hysterical? Maybe. But sensitive, lonely youngsters can be like that, especially when poverty is the cause of discrimination.

Pitiful, that broken young body, swaying in the sunlight that had refused him a place. Came a brief space of state-wide horror, shame and indignation. Discovery that there already existed a law against secret societies in high school. Determination to put teeth in that law—punish, by expulsion, any student who broke it.

National college organizations added their protest by forbidding admittance to any student who had belonged to such organizations. Front-page fireworks—potent, for a while. Then the same old thing happened in the same old American way.

Public interest flagged, parents became indifferent. The racket went on. Rich kids were rushed, poor kids ignored. Increasing thousands of Young Americans learning to defy the law, thumb their noses at democracy.

"Yes, we know," cried the teachers. "We realize that youngsters of high school age can't stand the strain of social, financial and racial discrimination which college men can take in their stride. It's all wrong. But what can we do about it?

"The youngsters practice countless evasions. The rushes and initiations are going on, right under our noses—but they call themselves 'Sewing Societies,' 'Benevolent' or 'Amusement' clubs.

"Moreover, the parents back them up. They're as excited as the youngsters at the prospect of joining. They let them meet at home. Supply the money for initiation dues, sometimes as high as $15—with $10 contributions toward each dance. Endless expense for formals, taxis and orchids. How can we fight a combination like that?"

And you have to admit they've tried. In many California high schools, registration cards bear two pledges to be signed by pupil and parent, promising, on their honor, to "uphold the state law" which forbade such memberships. Practically every card is duly signed; yet before the ink is dry, Sonny and Sis are being bid, strutting in glory or sulking in adolescent despair.

Obviously the younger generation was riding high, wide and hell-bent until, at last, two parents—appalled at the request to sign a promise which everyone expected to be broken—made inquiries, found facts, and spilled them in this column. Result? Investigation . . . consternation . . . recrimination. With wrathful letters chin-high on my desk.

"Why," demanded old folks and young alike, "must you come along and spoil everything? What if it is a law? We've been getting by with it for years. Perhaps some kids do get hurt—well, that's just their bad luck. How are we going to have fun—dances and things—if the Frats don't provide them? You can't expect kids just to study 'n' study! Nobody obeys a lotta laws anyway. And how are you goin' to make us if we don't wanna?"

Which argument, I admit, has its points. I can't "make 'em." No private citizen can stop a nation-wide, youthful defiance of the law if the majority of parents approve and aid that defiance, or are too cowardly or indifferent to take a stand.

BUT JUST WHERE DOES THIS LEAVE AMERICA?

We stand aghast at Europe's and Asia's unholy Axis. We are mustering unprecedented resources of men, money and munitions to save Democracy. But what is the use of all this struggle and sacrifice if we continue to breed, in our own public schools, as vicious a disregard for law and contempt for democracy as the very foes we fight display?

ADOLF HITLER IN HIS BLOODIEST SCHEME AGAINST HUMAN FREEDOM AND EQUALITY COULD WISH NO BETTER TOOL FOR HIS PURPOSE THAN WE ARE NOW PROVIDING. INVADE AMERICA? DESTROY THE FAITH OF OUR FATHERS? HE NEEDN'T BOTHER! WE'RE DOING IT FOR HIM RIGHT NOW!

P. S. Do I want to know your opinion? I certainly do! And I'm hoping it's red hot!

Timely Editorial

"Causes" of Alcoholism.

It is not surprising that the members of the Research Council on Problems of Alcohol, who have been holding their annual meeting in New York, regard alcoholism as a major ailment, like cancer, tuberculosis, heart disease and other afflictions that carry away millions every year.

They are seeking to combine the various methods of treatment to the end that the "ailment" be eliminated. In the council are leaders in the fields of medicine and psychiatry and leaders in business, social and civic groups. It seems plain that the economic, social and physical consequences of the consumption of alcoholic beverages just cannot be avoided.

The scientists and experts undoubtedly have good ideas—they should have the best—on how to control alcoholism, but it seems clear that so long as the nation and the states are willing to use the liquor traffic as a source of revenue there will be no general alleviation of the conditions caused by excessive drinking.—Albany, N. Y. News.

One Word.

A word, a single word, can change
The world. Oh, careful be
With words, their power is monstrous, far
Beyond our strength to see.

Long, long ago, one wrote in blood.
The pen is mightier
Than any sword: truth to be set
Above earth's stir and whir.

Truth to be held close in the heart.
And to control the mind.
For never anywhere will you
Or I a mightier find.

Bob LaFollette In Tough Battle; Father Coughlin Political Zero

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

MADISON, Wis.—For more than thirty years there has been a LaFollette in the senate, but this year the famous crusading dynasty is in real danger of being unseated.

"Young Bob" LaFollette, able, courageous, conscientious son of the late great Progressive, is fighting for his political life. In the past two weeks, Bob's prospects appear to have improved, but the final outcome of the close struggle is still doubtful.

Bob's opponent is Fred H. Clausen, wealthy farm-implement merchant, and regular Republican, who long has been a LaFollette foe. Clausen, however, is not the real source of Bob's difficulties, although he is their beneficiary.

Bob's difficulties stem from various factors unrelated to Clausen. Chief of them are:

(1) Deep-seated antipathy toward LaFollette's glib, ambitious, younger brother Phil, twice governor of Wisconsin; and

(2) A strong undercurrent of hostility toward Bob, because of his extreme isolationist stand, among the large Scandinavian population which has been the backbone of the Progressive movement in the state.

Phil LaFollette was defeated in 1938 by a wave of resentment against him, personally, and against the peculiar National Progressive party which he launched that spring with suspiciously fascist trappings and ideological rhetoric. Phil denied that his movement had any fascist aims, but veteran LaFollette leaders refused to have anything to do with it just the same. William T. Evjue, two-fisted editor of the Madison Capital Times, official daily of the LaFollette organization, openly assailed Phil and the NPP.

This widespread feeling against Phil is prevalent, and, curoiously, is being taken out on Bob. Definitely abetting this is the known fact that Bob is swayed politically by his flashy younger brother.

Privately, Bob did not approve of the National Progressive party plan. But when Phil insisted on going through with it, Bob did not demur.

Bob may yet skin through the election on Nov. 5, but if he does he'll know he has been through the toughest fight of his fifteen-year senatorial career.

Coughlin and Michigan.

DETROIT—A once shrill and widely feared voice is silent in the hot campaign melee churning up the hustings of Michigan. Father Charles Coughlin, whose radio bombardment and presidential ticket in 1936 had politicos literally talking to themselves, now is both off the air and, politically, as flat as a pancake.

The politicos don't give Coughlin a thought and neither does the electorate of this great motor state. This was strikingly demonstrated in the Michigan primary, when two of his most intimate henchmen, squat, wordy Louis Ward, editor of Social Justice, and wispy George Herman Derry, Coughlin's braintruster, were thumpingly licked for congressional nominations.

Four years ago, Ward came within an ace of winning the Democratic senatorial nomination. When he tried again this year, Democratic leaders were worried. But their fears were groundless. He ran a poor third against two little known opponents.

Derry tried for the house on the Republican ticket, but did no better than Ward. He ran a poor third.

Note — Coughlin is in strong disfavor among the Catholic clergy in this diocese. Archbishop Mooney is credited with keeping a firm restraining hand on him.

Doubtful Indiana.

INDIANAPOLIS — In one particular the Democratic campaign in Indiana differs from that of any other state in the Middle West.

Here the Democrats have a real go-getting state organization. It is on its toes. And it is fighting militantly for the national and state ticket against concededly tough odds.

Credit for this belongs largely to Chairman Fred Bays, one of the most colorful figures in American politics. Handsome, dapper and dynamic, Bays is a former showman and circus owner, who applies to the political arena all the hoopla and zing necessary to his former profession.

Bays' basic belief is that the way to win votes is to entertain folks. He tours the hustings with a troupe of circus and vaudeville performers whom he carefully rehearses daily. He also writes the script for the half-hour barn dance which he stages and broadcasts with a cast of sixty-five. Tickets, given away free, are at a premium.

Bays' shows go off like clockwork. Several hours before a performance, the ornately painted truck of the state committee pulls up, a crew of decorators with bunting, pictures and sound equipment takes charge of the hall, and the actors go through a rehearsal. On the dot of schedule the show opens. Bays makes a brief political talk and the performance begins, closing with a boy soprano singing "God Bless America." This wows them.

Bays' drive and talents so impressed Henry Wallace, when he campaigned in Indiana, that he tried to get the ex-circus man to manage his own campaign. In fact, Bays has attracted the attention of Roosevelt and other leading Democrats who are not averse to naming him as successor to National Chairman Ed Flynn if and when Ed steps out after the election.

Merry-Go-Round.

WASHINGTON — It will surprise no one if some of the Latin-American military men now touring the U. S. as guests of the army will participate in the occupation of Martinique under joint Pan-American auspices.

Roosevelt is anxious to make the taking over of French possessions a truly good-neighbor enterprise. . . . It looks as if Democratic Boss Hague of Jersey City were going to give the run-around to Jimmy Cromwell in his senatorial race by passing the word down for Senator Barbour, Republican. . . . If Jimmy loses, his wife, Doris Duke, tobacco millionairess, probably will go through with the rumored marital break. . . . Bess Farley, wife of the ex-Postmaster General is wearing a Willkie button, but her husband has really been rolling up his shirt-sleeves and working for F. D. R. Jim has been working at his desk until 2:30 a. m. As head of the New York state Democratic organization, he can't afford to see a break in approximately twenty years of Democratic rule.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—About two years ago I dropped into one of the Broadway clubs and saw a lanky, red-headed comedian by the name of Danny Kaye put on his act. To me, he seemed funny. Not all comedians do. A few minutes later Billy Rose walked up to him and told him he thought he was one of the cleverest comedians he had ever seen. That was high praise.

Looking back on that night I recall a little song that Kaye sang. It was "Sweet Molly Malone" . . . "I picked it up in Dublin," he explained. "I heard somebody sing it on some crowded Dublin street, and I liked it."

Today, this song has become a great hit in the East. I suppose you can find it recorded by many people, but the one I like best of all is Maxine Sullivan. Her rendition of it is the record of the month.

OUR coming-up-in-the-world note for the week concerns Charlie Chaplin. . . . In the old days Charlie signed himself simply as "Charlie." But since he has made "The Dictator" he has billed himself as "Charles" Chaplin. . . . Seems mighty august to me.

They are calling Lanny Ross' farm house, which has only four rooms, "Singer's Midget."

Jimmy Van Heusen, the composer and band leader, is also a pilot. He has named his plane "All This and Heaven Too," after one of his song hits. Van Heusen's real name is Edward Chester Babcock.

There's a fellow in this town who came out of the box cars and hobo camps of America to become producer of plays. Late the other night, through heavy-lidded eyes, he peered at me for a long time, then said: "When you're broke you've got lots of friends. But when you win a little success they seem to fall away from you." . . . Well, I should have said to him some of the things on my mind. . . . I should have said, "Since you made a little money you've become a first class heel. On one or two occasions you've pulled some raw deals. What did you expect?" But I didn't. I took the easy way out, pretending not to hear him. . . . I wish now I had let him have it.

THIS new Cafe Society club on 58th strikes a responsive chord. It was the first time I'd been by there in years. Back in 1933, a week or so after repeal, Belle Livingston opened a nightclub there, and she sent me a little note saying, "I am endeavoring to make even repeal attractive."

But Belle failed. Then, in this order, the club became known as Joe Zelli's, El Rio, Mother Kelly's, and the Surf club. All gave up the ghost. Cafe Society is redoing the exterior by painting murals on the outside walls. One little difficulty was encountered when the artist found a small window in the way of his mural. He solved his problem by painting a frame around the pane, causing it to resemble a framed painting.

One of my Japanese friends, a Tokyo correspondent, sums up his idea of Utopia thusly: "Marry a Japanese girl, eat Chinese food, and live in America in an apartment house."

A Farmer's Diary

Poultry Experiment

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

IN THE office of our village elevator, the manager has a battery made of sheet metal and wire, containing pullets from ten farms about the neighborhood.

"Going into the chicken business yourself?" I asked.

"No," he explained," we're testing out the mash we sell, so that farmers and their friends can compare what these birds do with their own flocks at home. At first we thought the office, where everyone goes in and out, might not be a good place—we wondered if so many people coming and going would hinder them from eating or make them nervous. But it doesn't seem to. Even the chewing tobacco that some of the farmers use seems to do 'em good.

"They're surely a domestic lot, and I kind o' like to have them around. They have some almost human traits. When someone comes here in bad humor and tells in a loud voice what he thinks of the way the country is going straight to the dogs, all ten of those fowls listen with heads high, much disturbed, and don't feel easy again for quite a while afterward. But when a good humored chap comes in, they sense a different atmosphere and appear to enjoy his presence.

"I try not to excite 'em. When I open up in the morning, I rap to let 'em know I'm coming. I know a number of poultrymen who always knock or speak before opening the henhouse door. When I was a boy we'd have laughed and called that nonsense, but times have changed, and poultry methods, too. I remember we used to feed our hens nothing but whole corn and whatever else they could pick up about the barnyard. I remember, too, they'd start to lay the last of February and keep on maybe until June. Any robin will lay in the spring.

"Nobody knew much about culling a flock, then. Trap nests were experiments, and laying strains were mostly a dream. We used to keep ten different kinds of hens, some four or five years old. Many of the flock would die a natural death. Now these birds are making records."

"What about that ungainly white Leghorn in the center?" I remarked.

"She's the best we've got," he said. "For three different days she's laid two eggs a day. If she keeps on, she'll be a champion. People mightn't believe it, but there are the eggs on the counter!"

"What would she do if you left the lights on all night?"

"I'm afraid to try it, for fear she might injure herself," he admitted, laughing.

Custodian Invents 'Cat Spanker' to Protect His Birds

SANTA FE, N. M.—Robert M Budlong hasn't anything against cats in general, but against the cats which are tempted by birds at Morro National Monument he has directed an inventive genius that relegates old shoes and crockery to the horse-and-buggy days

Budlong has built a "cat spanker" which, he says protects cats against the baser side of their nature and protects his birds from the cats. He is custodian of the monument.

His spanker consists of a platform on which salmon is placed as bait and an arrangement whereby the weight of an investigating cat releases a bent lath which strikes the animal and sends it tumbling over the salmon and into a metal chute leading to a tub of water.

"The cat emerges at great speed, streaks for the nearest fence and never returns," Budlong explains.

To avoid such inhumane contingencies as spinters or broken bones, Budlong recommends padding the spanking end of the lath with sponge rubber.

"My neighbors tell me their cats have become rather shy," he concludes.

FASCIST AERIAL ATTACKS APPEAR GAINING SPEED

Stubborn Greeks Check Italian Advance After Falling Back To Entrenched Line.

Reports from the warfront 100 miles west of here, meanwhile, indicated the Greeks were continuing to hold their own.

A communique said that Greek forces in the Epirus sector on the southern end of the Albanian border had kept the Italians in check all day yesterday after "a slight withdrawal of their advance sections according to a pre-arranged plan."

The Italian offensive in this area was reported taking the form of a two-pronged drive aimed at the industrial city of Ioannina, 30 miles from the frontier.

Bands of irregulars, the high command said, were "collaborating" with the Italians. The nationality of the irregulars was not identified.

Little military activity was reported elsewhere, though unofficial sources estimated the Greeks had captured approximately 800 prisoners on the northern end of the front during the last few days.

Reinforcements continued to stream out of this city by very available means of conveyance as the Greeks took advantage of the lack of Italian aerial activity in this area to rush men and equipment to the front.

Mobilization proceeded at top speed.

The Athens news agency, meanwhile, estimated at 110 dead and more than 300 wounded the casualties resulting from the bombing Monday of the Port of Patras by Italian planes which the agency alleged flew Greek colors.

Main Italian Attack Repulsed

OHRID, JUGOSLAV FRONTIER — (U.P.) — Dispatches to the frontier today reported that Greek troops had repulsed Italian forces attacking the town of Melisopetra on the main road toward the important Greek town of Janina.

Janina, about 35 miles inside the Greek border, is the main objective of the Italian drive due south from Albania into the western part of Greece.

Messages received here reported also that the Italians had occupied the small Greek village of Kastanani, several miles south of Konispoli.

Bad weather along the front was said to be hampering operations.

Word reaching here was that additional Albanian rebels from the regions of Peskopeia, Donia and Dibra yesterday joined Albanian rebel groups in the district of Muriditi.

Turks Informed Aid Not Needed

ANKARA, Turkey—(AP)—Greece has informed the Turkish government she can resist Italian pressure alone, semi-official sources in Ankara asserted today.

These sources declared Turkey would enter the war only "in case of Bulgarian attack on Greece or if Turkey's national interestes are endangered."

However, Turkey cannot remain disinterested in developments in the eastern Mediterranean, they said, and has informed the Athens government she will give Greece every help possible even if she does not enter the war.

The official Turkish radio, in a discussion of the Greece campaign, said Italy was facing an important test of her military prestige, but thus far has not "shown up brilliantly."

The announcer declared that the best way for Britain to aid Greece was by bombing Italian air bases, protecting Greece against air attacks and also by "attacking Italian cities, including Rome."

The commentator predicted that the Italians would retain Salonika if they were able to seize that vital Aegean port, but would turn over eastern Thrace and Bulgaria, which has been agitating for such an outlet to the Aegean.

Spread of Greek War Not Expected

BERLIN — (AP) — German officialdom appeared confident today that the Italian-Greek conflict could be localized.

The conviction was that Turkey could become involved only in case Bulgaria did. Information from Sofia is that Bulgaria intends to remain neutral.

The conclusion therefore was drawn that, barring unforeseen developments neither Turkey nor Bulgaria would take a hand. They seemed all the more out of the range of possible participation since Italy has no forces on the [illegible] frontier [illegible] struggle [illegible]

Informed sources pointed out that Turkey studiously had avoided doing anything that might draw her into war. Both Bulgaria and Turkey are said to be Wilhelmstrasse neutral.

STRIKE ENDED

Rubber Workers Return To Jobs During Negotiations.

YOUNGSTOWN—(AP)—A three-day strike at Republic rubber division of Lee Tire and Rubber Co. ended here today with company officials and strikers signing a stipulation calling for contract negotiations.

The union called the strike Monday, charging company officials had met with union officials only three times since the NLRB certified the union as bargaining agent and that contract negotiations had failed.

CONFIDENT OF VOTE VICTORY

Candidate Promises To Speed Up Aid To Britain If He's Elected.

publican side)," said the G. O. P. standard-bearer and the crowd cheered.

Willkie told his audience in Wilmington, where boos were mingled with cheers when he stepped from his train and proceeded to the city hall, that after listening to the president's latest campaign speech he couldn't understand "whether he was running against Bruce Barton for the senate from New York or against Joe Martin for congress."

"The Democratic speakers all now agree, even the third-term candidate, with me on one point—the question of whether America can become productive," said the Republican candidate. "If she cannot become productive she cannot give aid to Great Britain."

He then promised, if elected, to outdistance the New Deal administration in helping the British.

"The issues of this campaign are simple," Willkie added. "To make America strong we must make it strong in the functioning of its domestic economy. Have you any doubt that Wendell Willkie with the confidence of business and labor, cannot do more than Franklin D. Roosevelt to bring this about?

"One of the principal speakers for the New Deal ticket said the other night that domestic problems were of no concern—that we had to look at problems overseas. I don't agree with that.

"This way of life cannot be preserved if you return a government to power that for seven and a half years has spent more than it has taken in and is taking us down the road to bankruptcy, chaos and inflation.

"This way of life will pass if you return this administration to office. We must stop them—we must win—we must prevail in order to save this precious thing."

In his Baltimore speech Willkie used strong language, stronger than it appeared in his prepared text.

In that document, altered and changed by the candidate as he read along and as he usually does, he said:

"On the basis of his (Mr. Roosevelt's) past performance with pledges to the people, why shouldn't we expect to be at war by April, 1941, if he is elected?"

When he reached that portion of his text, he looked up, leaned forward, and put this challenge:

"Mr. Third Term Candidate—Is your pledge about peace and acceptance of the Democratic platform more or less sacred than the pledge you made about sound money in 1932?

"Are you kidding Joe Kennedy the same way you kidded Carter Glass?"

(Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy broadcasting in behalf of the president the night before had assured the nation that Mr. Roosevelt's re-election would mean continuing peace.)

Then to the audience, Willkie said solemnly:

"On the same basis, if you re-elect him you may expect war by April, 1941."

After his Baltimore speech, Willkie returned to his train where he listened to President Roosevelt's third announced political speech and later issued a statement in which he challenged Mr. Roosevelt to answer the issues of the campaign.

Willkie's statement read in part:

"I listened to the president's speech. Frankly I was disappointed. He is running for president of the United States—not for a member of the house of representatives. He devoted a great deal of his time to attacking Mr. Joseph W. Martin, Republican floor leader of the house, and one of the most distinguished of American public men.

"The Washington correspondents representing the press throughout the United States, last spring voted Mr. Martin the ablest member of the lower house of congress. I subscribe completely to that judgment of Mr. Martin's character and capacity. And I am proud to have him as national chairman of the Republican party managing my campaign. The campaign of Mr. Roosevelt is being managed by the chairman of the Democratic National committee, Edward J. Flynn of the Bronx. Mr. Roosevelt did not characterize Boss Flynn but Mayor La Guardia did in the following terms: 'Ed Flynn of the Bronx is as low and as vicious as Croker or as Tweed.'

"I do hope that the president, before the campaign is over, will answer these questions:

"1. Why is it that after having spent sixty billion dollars, there are over nine million men still unemployed in the United States—approximately the same number as when he ran for president in 1936?

"2. Why is it that we have stayed in a condition of chronic depression for seven and a half years when every other country in the world prior to the outbreak of the World war, showed greater progress toward recovery?

"3. Why is it that although he has failed to build an adequate defense for the United States he told congress last June to adjourn because there was no necessity of its staying in session. Since that date he has requested for congress billions of dollars in appropriations for the building of a national defense program?

4. "Why is it that he should be permitted to violate a principle of 150 years against a third term—especially at a time when democracy is already in peril without the added menace of long-term personal power?

5. 'How does he justify his alliance with the most corrupt political machines in America? How does he explain his first-name intimacy with their bosses?

"There is one thing, however, that the president instructed me on. I had assumed that the ambassador to the court of St. James was the ambassador of the people of the United States and not the personal representative of the president.

"I, at least, would consider all government representatives to be servants of the people rather than of myself."

The candidate has six speeches scheduled today with the first in Wilmington, Del., a state in which he has not previously spoken. Then he goes to Chester, Pa., Trenton, N. J., Plainsboro, N. J., and Camden N. J. All six speeches are off the campaign train and the Camden speech is to be broadcast.

Friday, Willkie will be in Burlington New Brunswick and Elizabeth, N. J.

From noon Friday to noon Saturday his train will be parked in a railroad yard somewhere in New Jersey. The dea is to give the candidate 24 hours of absolute quiet before he arrives in Manhattan for his Saturday night speech at Madison Square Garden which is the real climax of his campaign.

and mothers that "your boys are not going to be sent into any foreign wars." In all of his New England speeches Mr. Roosevelt re-emphasized his denial of G. O. P. candidate Wendell Willkie's charge that American boys "are on their way to the transports" and insisted that his administration was building up an impregnable defense purely for defense.

Tomorrow, the president will resume his campaigning with a final speech in New York City at the Brooklyn Academy of Music and then tour on to Cleveland by way of Rochester and Buffalo.

At Boston last night the chief executive delighted his audience by assuring them that the national defense program was progressing rapidly despite the assertions to the contrary of Republican campaign orators. With particular reference to the goal of 50,000 planes for America, he said:

"The productive capacity of the United States that I talk about, which has made it the greatest industrial country in the world is not failing now. It is going to make us, it is making us the strongest air power in the world."

A capacity crowd in the Garden sent up a loud cheer when he added: "And that is not just a campaign promise."

Once again the president produced "the old congressional record" to cite Republican votes to prove his point that the G. O. P. legislators had recorded themselves against salient features of the Republican national platform.

Mindful of his rural audience, although speaking to a city crowd, the president held up to ridicule "the crocodile tears" shed by house and senate Republicans "over the plight of the farmer."

In particular, he singled out the voting record of house minority Leader Joseph Martin, chairman of the Republican national committee, on farm legislation and reached the conclusion that Martin, by virture of his opposition "to every single one" of the New Deal farm measures, must be under consideration by Willkie for secretary of agriculture.

The president, however, repeatedly refused to admit that Willkie would be elected. In New Haven and Hartford, Conn., and Worcester, Mass., he predicted his re-election with the aid of those New England states.

Huge crowds, frequently getting out of police control in their enthusiasm, greeted him as he toured the Connecticut valley into Boston.

Among the indirect but obvious jibes Mr. Roosevelt launched at Willkie was the assertion that "the American farmers will not be deceived by pictures of old guard candidates patting cows and pitching hay in front of moving picture cameras."

On the score of national defense progress, the president said that in his seven years his administration had raised the total of navy fighting ships in commission from 193 to 337 and had 119 more actually under construction. He reported that the defense council had let more than eight billion dollars in contracts.

He attacked "as the most inexcusable unpatriotic misstatement of fact the brazen charge that the men called to training for the army will not be properly housed." By January 5, he said, there will be complete and adequate housing for 930,000 soldiers—adding that the campaign orators will be "under the painful necessity of coming down to Washington later and eating their words."

Fliers are being trained to man army and navy planes "as fast as they come off the line," he continued.

This afternoon, at Bethesda, Maryland, a suburb of Washington, the president will dedicate the public health service's new $4,500,000 national health institute, established for scientific research in controlling disease.

DRAFT BOARDS HERE GET SET FOR FIRST CALL

Second Call, Due About Dec. 2, To Take 10,000 In Ohio For Army Training.

service and were sent to Camp Shelby, Miss.

It is expected that county draft boards will begin mailing out questionnaires to registrants by Saturday at the rate of a few a day. The maximum of questionnaires to be mailed daily is 50.

Registrants will have five days to fill out the blanks and return them to their draft boards. As they are returned, the boards will classify the men for service, determining whether they will be called when their order number appears or deferred because of their jobs, dependents, or physical defects.

With only nine men due to go from Richland county in November, the December call will take approximately 90 under the new quota.

Draft officials estimated that about one in every 20 men registered will start his year's army training during the next year. On that basis, about 470 Richland countians will get the call to service within the next year.

The national quota calls for 800,000 men in camps by next June. The monthly quotas and the dates on which they will be called include:

Nov. 18, 30,000; Dec. 2, 60,000; Jan. 3, 60,000; Jan. 15, 90,000; Feb. 10, 160,000; March 5, 200,000; June 15, 200,000.

If the draft boards decide after checking the questionnaires that the registrant is available for service, he will be given a physical examination. If the draftee disagrees with the classification he receives, he may ask the board of appeals in his district to review his case. Should the appeals board uphold the draft board's classification, the draftee is ordered to camp.

During the World War, deferments ran two-thirds, but this was on an age group of 21 to 31 instead of 21 to 35, army men pointed out. Since a much greater proportion of the older men are married and have families, they expect a much higher percentage of dependency deferments now.

These army experts, however, agreed that men whose numbers were drawn after the first 2,000 in the lottery would not be called with the first 800,000.

In a new statement, draft headquarters announced that there is a total of 6,253 local boards, which means that only an average of 128 men will have to be called from each board in order to secure the required year's quota.

If a man's board is "average" and assuming that three-quarters of the men are going to be deferred, 128 men thus could be obtained by calling down to order number 512. Those with order numbers higher than that, in other words, would not be called.

Draft experts, however, warned men not to confuse order numbers with "lottery numbers." They repeated the explanation that all numbers drawn in the lottery higher than the highest number in a man's local board would not be counted in determining his order number.

At the same time, they pointed out that new quotas would be given to all the local areas and that due to this and to differences in sizes of the boards, some would have to supply many more than 128 men, while some would call many less.

FELT LIKE A KNIFE STICKING IN BACK

Local Citizen Says Pains Often Kept Him Awake Nights. Vendol Acted as Mild Diuretic on Kidneys, Giving Splendid Relief.

MR. HAROLD R. DITWILER

Mr. Harold Ditwiler of 63 N. Walden avenue, Mansfield says, "My kidneys seemed scant and delayed in action, and when this condition was worse, I'd have such awful pains across my back it felt like a knife was sticking in me and many nights these pains awakened me and I could hardly get back to sleep. Sometimes the pains ran down through my legs, then it was an effort to stoop or bend over.

"I tried several things without getting much relief, but when I read about Vendol and how it helped so many people, I got some, and I want to take this means of expressing my thanks for the wonderful relief it gave.

"Vendol acted as a mild diuretic on my kidneys bringing about freer action and also relieved my constipation, then my aches and pains were soon relieved and I am not troubled that way any more."

We don't say that all cases of backache, pains in the arms, limbs, back, and sore stiff muscles will respond to Vendol, but a few bottles helped this party in a big way, so if you suffer from the same troubles why not give Vendol a trial today and see for yourself just what it may do for you, too.

There is only one Vendol, and it comes in 3 sizes for your convenience. Larger bottles are the most economical. Sold at leading druggists, recommended especially by Central Drug Store, corner Main & 4th Streets.

Political Analyst Again Predicts Willkie Victory

HURJA REPORTS 29 STATES FOR GOP CANDIDATE

Sees Electoral Vote of 353 To 178 In Next Week's National Election.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK — Emil Hurja, one of America's foremost political analysts, today predicted that Wendell L. Willkie will defeat Franklin D. Roosevelt in the 1940 presidential election by an estimated plurality of 353 electoral votes to 178.

Hurja gives Willkie 29 states, Roosevelt 19.

The popular vote, in his opinion, will be "pretty evenly divided."

(Hurja's genius for analyzing political trends have won him fame. He "called the turn" in 1936 when, as statistician for former Democratic National Chairman James A. Farley, he predicted Roosevelt would win all but two states. His deductions were largely responsible for Farley's amazingly accurate predictions on various elections.)

Today's prediction by Hurja is based on the result of polls taken by the magazine he publishes — "The Pathfinder" — which has a rural circulation in excess of 1,000,000 copies a week.

Hurja cautions, however, that his figures do not mean that the race is "in the bag" for Willkie. It is extremely close in many states, he points out, and there is yet time for the picture to change.

Hurja, basing his calculations on the situation that existed on Oct. 26, ten days before the election, predicts that the states will go this way in the electoral column: For Willkie: Maryland 8, West Virginia 8, Iowa 11, Kansas 9, Minnesota 11, Nebraska 7, North Dakota 4, South Dakota 4, Wisconsin 12, Illinois 29, Indiana 14, Michigan 19, Ohio 26, Colorado 6, Idaho 4, New Mexico 3, Wyoming 3, Connecticut 8, Maine 5, Massachusetts 17, New Hampshire 4, Rhode Island 4, Vermont 3, California 22, Oregon 5, Washington 8, New Jersey 16, New York 47, Pennsylvania 36.—Total 353

For Roosevelt: Kentucky 11, Missouri 15, Oklahoma 11, Tennessee 11, Arizona 3, Montana 4, Nevada 3, Utah 4, Delaware 3, Alabama 11, Arkansas 9 Florida 7, Georgia 12, Louisiana 10, Mississippi 9, North Carolina 13, South Carolina 8, Texas 23, Virginia 11—Total 178.

Hurja said that today "the Willkie prairie-fire is sweeping across the country from the Pacific to the Atlantic, carrying with it everything in its path."

"And the strange part of it is," he added, "is that it started in Maine, swept southward, then westward, and is now backtracking into every corner of the land —every corner except the solid south, where it has run smack into the stone wall of a tradition dating back to the war between the states."

Commenting on the trend he sees toward Willkie, Hurja said no such general set-back and reversal of form have been seen since the first Roosevelt landslide.

"While 1936 saw the president getting more electoral votes and carrying more states than he did in 1932, he nevertheless lost strength in that year in more than half the nation's counties," said Hurja, "and his popularity was beginning to wane in all but the industrial areas, which gave him the bulk of his huge majority.

"And the same reasons that started the Roosevelt decline four years ago, a decline that continued with undiminished force into the 1938 congressional elections, are still working toward the downfall of the New Deal."

Answering the question "who are the people supporting Willkie?" Hurja continued:

"Facts divulged by our polls disclose that 80 per cent of the relief voters were for President Roosevelt in 1936, but today the percentage is closer to 70.

"Separate polls taken among doctors, lawyers, dentists, teachers, professional and business groups in general, show a reverse situation — with the preference about 70 per cent for Willkie. Many professional people supported Roosevelt four years ago who are transferring their allegiance now.

"The farm vote defection, while not so great as that of the professional groups, is nevertheless pronounced. Thus, voters in every walk of life are shifting from the president to us Republican opponent, so that it cannot be said there is class against class."

PEDDLER FACES MURDER CHARGE

Arrested After Housekeeper's Body Is Found Stuffed Into Barrel.

(By Associated Press)

EAST LIVERPOOL — Frank Cascio, 55-year-old produce peddler, faced further preliminary hearing today on the charge that he murdered Mrs. Julia Wall, 46, his former housekeeper whose body was found crammed into a potato barrel.

Four witnesses were called. Ten others testified yesterday in the municipal court hearing requested by City Solicitor C. P. Lynch.

Catherine Jordon, 16, a daughter of Mrs. Wall by a previous marriage, identified her mother's wedding ring which police said they found in Cascio's clothing when he was arrested.

Christopher Wall, 60, husband of the victim, identified her flashlight which police found in Cascio's home. She was carrying it when last reported seen alive.

Charles Harris testified Cascio recently asked Mrs. Harris to write to Mrs. Wall arranging for her to meet him. The letter was not sent. Harris quoted Cascio as saying "Julia has double-crossed me and I feel like killing her."

Police Chief Hugh J. McDermott filed first degree murder charges against Cascio. The produce dealer pleaded innocent.

Mrs Wall was strangled. Her warm body was found Tuesday in the barrel which had been dumped along a cindered side street.

The former housekeeper left Cascio's employment Oct. 4. She married Wall, a steel worker, last Friday. She is survived by her daughter and two sons. Her former husband is dead. She lived at nearby Smith's Ferry.

'Hit Skip' Horse New One for State Patrolmen Here

Highway patrolmen have had plenty of cases involving hit-skip drivers, but last night was the first time they ever had a hit-skip horse on their hands.

Edward West, 48, R. D. 4, Mansfield, was driving his horse-drawn wagon on Route 30 near the city limits last night, when he was struck from behind by an automobile driven by Frank Sneer, 62, R. D. 4, Mansfield.

The wagon overturned, throwing West from the vehicle. The wagon hit the pavement directly in the path of a truck driven by Harold Carruthers, 39, Belle Center, reducing the wagon to splinters.

While all this was going on, West's horse broke loose from the wagon and left the scene of the accident, which is "strictly against the law," patrolmen said.

West, Sneer, and his wife who was riding in the car were all slightly injured and were treated in General hospital.

The horse was not apprehended by police until early this morning.

HITS 'HIGH PRESSURE' SALES METHODS FOR POLICE DANCE

Police Chief Meade K. Bates today took steps to stop the "high-pressure methods" allegedly being used by paid solicitors to sell tickets to the annual policemen's dance to be held at the Coliseum Nov. 18.

Bates was notified today that merchants and individuals over the city were incensed at the methods employed in selling tickets for the annual ball, and which is a wide departure from previous years when policemen sold their own tickets.

Business men complained that solicitors had called them and set quotas of patrons' tickets—at $5 apiece—which they were expected to buy. One merchant said he was notified that he was expected to take $25 worth for "past favors from the police department."

Others had received letters, purportedly signed by Bates containing three patrons' tickets and asking that the money be returned by mail.

Bates said today he had not signed the letters nor seen them, and that the department had no intention of setting up quotas for business men or individuals.

"We decided to have paid solicitors conduct a telephone campaign this year because we thought it would be less trouble for citizens, and would avoid duplication of calls," Bates said today. "But we certainly never intended that anyone be told the number of tickets to buy or that anyone should be high-pressured. We have worked too hard to build up good will in the past to jeopardize it now by such methods. We hope that citizens will support the project again this year—but the number of tickets anyone buys is strictly his own business and for him to decide. If there are any more 'quotas' given to people, I hope they will report it to me immediately."

The entire ticket sale is in the hands of paid solicitors this year, an experiment which is being tried for the first time by the department.

The message quoted Governor Keen Johnson, Democrat, as saying "all state employes should contribute to the Democratic campaign fund" and that he "desired them to see that the full Democratic vote of Kentucky was cast."

No comment was offered immediately by Democratic State Campaign Chairman Judge W. B. Ardery.

48,000 HEALTH SEALS WILL BE MAILED NOV. 23

Announcement of Annual Drive Made by Mrs. H. C. Brokaw, Campaign Chairman.

Christmas Health Seals will make their appearance in Mansfield and Richland county on Nov. 23 when 48,000 of them will be placed in the mails.

The campaign opens Nov. 25, it was announced today by Mrs. H. C. Brokaw, Shelby, general chairman. The sale will be conducted entirely by mail and direct sale in the postoffices of the county. The goal this year is to raise $4,800 to carry on the tuberculosis diagnostic work for another year.

Funds raised by the seale of Health seals spans the gap between tuberculosis cases and treatment measures. It pays for the 16 free clinics that are held every year—12 diognostic and four re-check clinics—and does not overlap the treatment work that is made possible through the county's half mill levy.

The sale of Health Seals is sponsored by the Richland County Tuberculosis Association of which Dr. F. J. Heringhaus is president and Mrs. Brokaw vice president.

The direct mail campaign will be conducted by the women's auxiliary of the Richland County Medical association, and the postoffice seals will be in charge of the American Legion auxiliary.

Mrs. Brokaw said today that 80 cents of every dollar collected stays in Richland county, while 15 cents goes to the state and five cents to the national association for work against tuberculosis.

Last year the sale netted the association $4,627, and this year's quota tops that by $173.

Astronomers See Sparring Among Star Systems

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — Cosmic clashes—signs of conflict between star systems each as huge as the Milky Way — are suggested by some photographs taken by Harvard astronomers.

There are three of these pictures, each showing a nebula—a galaxy of stars comparable in size to the Milky Way and of entirely unusual form.

Instead of being spirals, the common form of star congregations in observable space, these are "one-armed." The usual spiral has two arms, on opposite sides, winding out like pinwheel flares.

Each of the three has lost one arm. The resulting shape is so striking that the astronomers have dubbed them "ring-tails."

F. Shirley Patterson, in the Bulletin of the Harvard College Observatory, calls attention to the proximity of two of the ring-tails as a possible sign that they came into conflict either with each other, or with some third huge galaxy. The two "ring-tails" face each other somewhat in the positions of fencers.

What the NEW DEAL Has Done FOR Richland County, Ohio

You don't have to go to Washington to learn what the government has done for the people in the last seven years. The Roosevelt Record is written right in your home county. Here is that record the solid foundation on which Democrats stand in the 1940 campaign.

-:- -:- FACTS -:- -:-

PUBLIC IMPROVEMENTS: Loans and grants from the Public Works Administration have met almost half the cost of major needed improvements in the county, among which are:

Waterworks, a sewage disposal plant, storm sewers and new schools at Mansfield.

A generator and sanitary sewer at Shelby.

Waterworks and school improvements at Lucas, Butler and Shiloh.

School additions at Bellville, Butler and Lucas.

-:- -:- FACTS -:- -:-

AGRICULTURE: Under agricultural policies begun by President Roosevelt and ably administered by Henry A. Wallace, farm incomes have gone up, interest rates on farm mortgages have gone down, and farm evictions have practically ceased.

This year, 1,774 farmers participated in the Agricultural Adjustment Administration program which since 1933 has brought $715,232 into the county in benefit and conservation payments. AAA soil improvement practices built up and restored the fertility of Richland County acres while the national program operated to put farm prices on a parity with other prices and give the farmer a fairer share of the national income. Under this program national farm income increased from $4½ billion in 1932 to $8½ billion in 1939.

-:- -:- FACTS -:- -:-

ELECTRICITY AND FARMS: The conveniences of light and power, which help to free the farmer from drudgery and a low standard of living, are now available to many rural families in Richland County. Electric lines have been built through an allotment made by the Rural Electrification Administration to the local co-operative electric association.

-:- -:- FACTS -:- -:-

WORK PROJECTS: The Works Projects Administration has given work to an average of 585 otherwise unemployed men and women on projects useful to the county and approved by local sponsors. A total of $1,940,000 of Federal funds, plus sponsor's contributions, has been spent in this county for WPA wages, materials and equipment. Important among the WPA improvements are 551 miles of improved or reconstructed road, 187 new bridges.

-:- -:- FACTS -:- -:-

FARM CREDIT: Loans totalling $300,000 from the Land Bank Commissioner, under the Farm Credit Administration, have saved many Richland County farms from foreclosure and made possible farm purchases. Emergency crop and feed loans have enabled farmers to continue production through difficult seasons.

-:- -:- FACTS -:- -:-

SOCIAL SECURITY: Among the benefits of the Federal-State Social Security program to Richland County are:

Unemployment compensation and old age and survivors' insurance, as a matter of right, for an increasing number of workers.

Assistance to more than 1,350 needy old people. Aid for 26 needy blind persons in their own homes.

Maintenance of almost 160 dependent children in the care of their own families.

-:- -:- FACTS -:- -:-

HOMES: By insuring loans totalling $1,000,000 the Federal Housing Adminstration has enabled 275 Richland County families to build or buy homes: for modernization and improvement of properties in this county 650 FHA loans totaling $200,000 have been made. This program has drawn fresh capital into the housing field, set higher standards of construction and neighborhood stability, and lowered interest rates.

Between 1933-36, following the depression, 302 Richland County homes were saved from foreclosure by loans totalling $886,747 from the Home Owners' Loan Corporation.

-:- -:- FACTS -:- -:-

AID TO YOUTH: 87 Richland County youths are engaged on National Youth Administration projects where they acquire training and work experience necessary in finding private employment.

150 boys from this county are enrolled in Civilian Conservation Corps camps, getting training and education while working to send $22 per month home. Work done by CCC boys has been of untold value in conserving our national resources.

-:- -:- FACTS -:- -:-

SAVINGS PROTECTED: Local banking disasters are made impossible by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, which insures individual accounts up to $5,000 from loss through bank failures.

DR. REMENYI REVIEWS BOOK BY THOMAS MANN

Clinic Ticket Holders Hear Talk on "The Beloved Returns"; Final Programs Scheduled Next Month.

FOR the second review of the series being sponsored by the Mansfield Dental clinic Dr. Joseph Remenyi, professor of comparative literature at Cleveland college of Western Reserve university, gave "The Beloved Returns" by Thomas Mann at the Ohio theater yesterday afternoon. The book is a biographical novel based on a somewhat insignificant event in the life of Goethe, the German author and philosopher.

The scene is set in the late 18th and early 19th centuries when Napoleon and the Holy Alliance were exercising a profound influence on all of Europe. It tells of Goethe's meeting with Charlotte Kestner, the Lotte of his immortal "Sorrows of Werther."

Readers are introduced to the once lovely, and now famous Lotte who comes to Weimar on a visit, and looks up her old sweetheart, the literary genius, Goethe. Much of the character and individuality of the philosopher is revealed in a dinner party scene at which Lotte is present by the able pen of Mann.

The theme of the novel is based on the character of Goethe, while the author strives to show "how extremely difficult it is to develop ones own personality, to be a complete individual" in chaotic times.

The topical quality of the book as a portrayal of the immediately post-Napolonic period, gives it a stirring intensity of interest in view of events in Europe today.

Remenyi, an author of some note gave an interpretation of the book, of Goethe, and of Mann, rather than a recounting of the rather insignificant story based on the meeting after 20 years of two lovers. Mrs. Ward Ingraham, president of the clinic, introduced the reviewer.

In connection with the review, which was given at 2:30 p. m., the current movie attraction was also shown.

The third review of the series will be given at 1 p. m., Nov. 6 at the theater with Mrs. Margaret Rowland speaking on "The Family" by Nina Sedorova. Doors will be open at 12:45 p. m., and the regular movie attraction will be shown immediately following the review.

Tickets for the Nov. 6 review and the final one, Nov. 27 by Dorothy Fuldheim may still be purchased from members of the committee, Mrs. Warren C. Fort, chairman, announced. Only those tickets sold by clinic representatives will be credited to the clinic for its welfare program.

PIGSKIN GOES FORMAL

The newest trend in pigskin gloves made in America seems to be toward the more dressy type. No longer need you wear this beautiful leather for active sports alone. One of the smartest gloves in the fashion world today is an eight-button type in natural pigskin with handstitching and a widely flaring cuff. This would be an excellent complement to a short sleeved beaver jacket . . . or worn OVER the tight sleeve of your wool street dress.

A new home diversion is made possible now by a machine which combines a device for making records at home with a radio and a phonograph. People are recording the voices of their children, members of the family and friends. Some are even starting libraries of home records.

AMERICAN FOLK MUSIC ON SAPPHO PROGRAM

Mrs. Ambrose Middleton, Mrs. J. G. Wallace, Mrs. Freundlich, Mrs. Sheriff Participate At Luncheon Meeting.

LUNCHEON was served to 29 members and two guests, Mrs. Leroy Wittemire and Miss Gertrude Middleton, Lancaster, yesterday when the Sappho club met at the Women's Club. The hostesses were Mrs. W. E. Renwick, Mrs. Bruce Rogers, Mrs. G. G. Rohleder, Mrs. F. E. Rudd and Mrs. L. J. Schubert.

Mrs. Ambrose Middleton introduced the program on American folk music by singing several selections from "Ballads and Songs From Ohio" by Mary O. Eddy, Perrysville. Her selections included "Bramblebriar," "Barbara Allen," and "I Had Four Brothers," in addition to a folk song sung in the Dorian mode.

"Fashions for Every Purse" was the subject of the paper given by Mrs. J. G. Wallace. She discussed synthetic textiles, artificial silks, bemberg, rayon and nylon. Mrs. Louis Freundlich then played "Buy a Broom" by William Sherwood, an old folk tune which illustrates how some American composers have used the American scene.

She then conducted a musical quiz on New England folk songs while accompanying Mrs. C. F. Sheriff who sang "Irish Washerwoman," "Green Grow the Rushes—O," and "Fisherman's Hornpipe."

The next meeting of the club will be held at the Women's Club at 2:30 p. m. Nov. 13 with Mrs. R. F. Cox as hostess.

For Quick Cough Relief, Mix This at Home

Saves You Much Money, and It's So Easily Mixed.

Here's an old home remedy your mother probably used, but, for real results, it is still one of the most effective and dependable, for coughs due to colds. Once tried, you'll swear by it.

It's no trouble. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar in 1 cup water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed—a child could do it.

Now put 2½ ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This makes a full pint of truly splendid cough medicine, and gives you about four times as much for your money. It keeps perfectly, tastes fine, and lasts a family a long time.

And you'll say it's really amazing, for quick action. You can feel it take hold promptly. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep.

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guaiacol, in concentrated form, well-known for its prompt action on throat and bronchial membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Condition Hair for Permanent

By MME. QUI VIVE

If you were one who joined up with the beauty crowds that got their locks permanently waved at the beginning of warm weather, you are just about due for another boiling of the head thatch. We doubt if any woman looks forward to the ordeal with pleasure, for it is still an ordeal despite the improvements in methods. It takes a certain amount of time for the winding of the strands and, though the period of heating has been cut down to a few moments, there's the tiresome session under the dryer after the new curly cues have been set. But go to it; the time has come when a permanet is a necessity if Mama Naure has not bestowed an undulation.

The longer the wait between waves, the better the result; the shafts are relaxed and the new growth takes a tighter curl than that which has been treated frequently. With the bob the croquignole is preferred to the spiral wind; the first forming tighter ringlets, the second waving the hair closer to the scalp. Smooth crowns seem to be the rule, so the croquignole serves.

Two weeks of oily applications to the scalp—that is, scalp lubricating every night for a fortnight—will do much to put the hair in first-class condition for the new wave.

Not much oil is necessary. Have it heated. You can use olive or mineral. A light mineral oil washes out easily.

Give the hair a rousing brushing, taking it strand by strand, grooming with a rolling motion of the brush. Hold the hair up, away from the head. Part the hair at various places, apply the oil with a medicine dropper, friction the scalp briskly. Spread out fingers and thumbs, pinch and roll the flesh.

After the massage brush again so that the oil will be distributed the length of the hair shafts. Rub the ends between oiled palms. The permanentt wave is bound to be a bit drying, and this reconditioning wards off crispness of the shafts.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"Olina!" Queen Olga's voice had the quality of a whiplash, and its effect upon her daughter was that of a stinging blow. She let the gleaming emeralds drop from her avid clutching fingers to the table.

"You will go to your room," the exiled queen of Transvania said measuredly, "and remain there until I come to you."

Olina's head was flung back and her palms were clenched, but her early discipline held.

"Yes, Maman," she said, and turning, walked out of the room.

Queen Olga's head was proudly erect, but her eyes were shadowed as she looked at us after her daughter had gone.

"I am much ashamed for my daughter," she said. "I must ask your pardon for her."

"The shock was too much for her," Philip Veritzen murmured, and my father said promptly:

"There is no question of pardon from us. This is a matter which concerns you only."

"I do not think Olina was quite herself," I said quickly, "stultifying my conscience, for my real opinion of the girl was hardly printable. "She thought the emeralds were gone forever, and the joy of their recovery was so shattered by the news that they must be sold, that she lost control of herself as a child seeing a toy destroyed might have done. I am sure that when you see her again, she will be herself again."

"Thank you so much, dear Madge," Olga said gratefully, and Philip Veritzen spoke quietly.

"Where do you plan to sell them, Olga?" he asked.

"I thought B's," she said, naming an old and internationally knewn jewel mart in New York. "But of course I can do nothing now. They are in Mr. Spencer's custody until this awful time is over."

"Of course," he agreed, as my father put the box of jewels back in the safe. "But I think you have made a wise choice. And all you have to do when the time comes is to telephone them. They'll send a man out here to you."

He did not offer to make any negotiations for her, an omission which he explained to Lillian and me when Olga had gone back to her room.

"I know the name of the jeweler, but I didn't dare rouse her suspicions by offering to aid her in the transaction. But the name is all I need to know. I shall keep track of the sale, and the very day it is consummated, I shall buy back that necklace, no matter what the price, and give it to her for a wedding present, with the understanding, of course, that eventually it will be Olina's. I shall see that Mary and Mary's daughters, should she have them, will have equally beautiful and valuable jewels, but those emeralds should be Olina's some day."

Lillian patted his arm affectionately.

"What a magnificent gesture, Phil!" she said. "You certainly deserve all the luck in the world."

"I'm getting it, with Olga," he said softly, and then I saw Katherine coming down the hall with urgency written all over her.

"Miss Whitlock wants you to come to Ede immediately," she said, and hurried away again, while Lillian and I, tossing a word of excuse over our shoulders, hurried after her.

We found Edith, with a face like death itself, babbling an incoherent plea that Dicky come to her at once.

"This isn't for myself," she cried. "It's for somebody else, somebody I've forgotten. It means death for an innocent person if he doesn't come."

I went immediately for Dicky, brought him directly to the little study though he protested every step of the way that Edith was faking, and then Lillian, Miss Whitlock and I left them together.

For a long time we heard the sound of Edith's voice, babbling endlessly, but so muted that we could not hear the words she was saying. Then came the sound of exciting questioning from Dicky, with Edith's answers punctured by hysterical sobbing. And then, Dicky's voice rose in excited exclamation.

"Ede! D'ye mean you left Babs there? The poor kid! They'll slit her throat, even if they don't torture her! Let me go, you murderess! There's just a chance. Miss Whitlock! Madge! Lil! Quick!"

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, November 1.

Great achievements and opportunities are foreshown by the powerful and lively lunar transits governing this day. Important projects in connection with influential organizations, political, diplomatic, humane, educational or philanthropic seem to start off under splendid impetus for outstanding success, nevertheless there are portents of such fine prospects being undermined by sudden, wild, impulsive and tricky circumstances of most devastating character. With those erratic moves eliminated and strategy used there is every hope of success.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of outstanding openings for definite success and achievements in connection with large groups centered on public objectives or advanced spiritual or humanitarian ends. This may be negated if not wholly vanquished by indulgence in impulsive, unteenable, or eccentric behavior, perhaps of a startling or sensational nature. With restraint, sound and workable ideas there may be surpising benefits attended by social and personal gratifications.

A child born on this day may have great depths of character with lofty aspirations and versatile talents, but such may be subject to spurts of whimsical, queer or eccentric actions to frustrate splendid prospects.

Excellent Menu for Children

By BETSY NEWMAN

This menu will be excellent to serve as the children's luncheon or supper. It would be an excellent luncheon for mother, too, as she usually eats scraps to save 'em, and shouldn't.

Today's Menu.

Cream of Carrot Soup
Pulled Bread or Crackers
Applesauce Brown Nut Bread
Cookies Milk

Cream of Carrot Soup.

½ cup onions, chopped
2 tbsps. butter
½ cup breadcrumbs
4 cups broth or water
1 tsp salt
Dash of pepper
1 tbsp. sugar
2 cups mashed cooked or grated raw carrots
1 cup milk (fresh or evaporated)

Cook chopped onions slowly in butter for 5 minutes, without browning add crumbs, broth, or water, salt, pepper and sugar, and simmer for 20 minutes. Add carrots and milk, reheat and serve at once. Serves 6.

* * *

Pulled Bread.

Cut ends off French loaf of bread and remove crusts. Cut in half crosswise, then pull bread into strips, using 2, 3-tinted forks. Put strips in dripping pan in slow oven until crisp and delicately brown.

* * *

Brown Nut Bread.

2 tbsps. sugar
2 tbsps. shortening
½ tsp. salt
½ cup boiling water
1 cake yeast
½ cup luke-warm water
1 egg
½ cup evaporated or fresh milk
1½ cups whole wheat flour
2 cups white flour
¼ cup pecan nut meats
¼ cup raisins or dates

Pour boiling water over sugar, shortening and salt. Dissolve yeast in lukewarm water; beat egg, add milk and pour into sugar mixture, and when cooled to lukewarm, add dissolved yeast.

Next stir in flour, chopped nuts and chopped raisins or dates, knead until smooth and elastic. Put in greased bowl, cover and let rise until doubled in bulk—about 2 hours—then knead and shape into loaf and put in greased bread pan. Cover and let rise again until doubled in bulk. Bake in moderately hot oven (400 degrees F.) for about 45 minutes. Makes 1 loaf.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority an Authorities"

AN INTRICATE FORMULA

To most good players, a double squeeze is an intricate enough proposition to understand. Those who learn its component parts, so that they can build one themselves, are not always able to recognize when an opponent is trying to build one. And those who get so that they can usually spot such an effort by the opposition are not necessarily familiar with the ways to thwart it. Sometimes it cannot be stopped, but if a player knows the formula for beating it, he may be able to grasp his chance.

Declarers at two tables of a duplicate game tried to make their contracts by means of double squeezes, playing the tricks in the same order. One made the double squeeze, but the other was thwarted. In each case, the first nine tricks went the same—two hearts, four spades, the diamond K, the club A and K. Each left the diamond A-7, heart 9 and club 8 in the dummy, and in his own hand the spade 9-7, diamond 10 and club 10.

To this point, the defenders also played alike, West holding his heart J, diamond Q-8 and club Q, and East his diamond J-9 and club J-6. But when South played his spade 9 to the tenth trick, the West players chose different discards. At one table, West tossed off his club Q and East, of course, his club 6. The declarer then played his spade 7 and the double squeeze was on. West had to keep his heart to guard the dummy's 9, so threw his diamond 8. The heart was then tossed from dummy. East now was squeezed between the club and his two diamonds, so declarer got the last two tricks.

At the other table, when the spade 9 was played on the tenth trick, West discarded his diamond 8 and kept the club Q and heart J. Thus he protected the singletons of the enemy's two holdings, so that his partner then could safely guard the diamond doubleton. As a consequence, declarer had to lose the final trick, no matter what he did.

Tomorrow's Problem.

How should South try for 3-No Trumps on this deal after West's lead of his fourth-best spade?

Wallace Brings Campaign to Ohio In Friday Speeches

VISITS EIGHT COUNTIES IN 1-DAY DRIVE

Bricker and Davey Seek Vote of Industrial Area In Cleveland Talks.

(By Associated Press)

Henry A. Wallace, Democratic candidate for vice-president, will visit eight eastern Ohio counties in an all-day campaign tour Friday.

Plans of party leaders call for the former secretary of agriculture to open his schedule at a breakfast meeting in New Philadelphia at 8 A. M., followed by speeches in Coshocton at 9:30 A. M., and Newark at 11 A. M.

He will lunch with farm, labor and business representatives in Lancaster, then speak in Zanesville at 2:30 P. M., Cambridge at 4 P. M., and Cadiz at 5:30 P. M., before going to Steubenville for an eastern Ohio Democratic rally and parade in the evening.

Ohio's nominees for governor and United States senator, meanwhile, concentrated their attention on the Northern Ohio industrial areas. Both Gov. John W. Bricker, Republican, and former Gov. Martin L. Davey, Democrat, pressed their re-election bids in Cleveland, today.

Davey, addressing a series of meetings in the state's largest city yesterday, accused Bricker of permitting "payments of outrageous lawyer fees to political pets" in handling liquidation of closed banks.

Governor Bricker told a Toledo Republican rally last night that he had kept a promise of two years ago to provide "good government" in Ohio. Every racket has been driven out of the state government, he said.

Cleveland's Republican mayor, Harold H. Burton, continued his campaign for United States senator by pleading for the election of Wendel L. Willkie for president before an Ashtabula audience. Burton is opposed by John McSweeney of Wooster.

In Columbus, Mrs. Newton D. Baker of Cleveland, widow of the former Democratic secretary of war, also supported Willkie's candidacy and told a political gathering that the New Deal had "cast into the discard" the principles that most Democrats favor.

Will of Willard Woman Divides $37,000 Estate

WILLARD — Bequests totaling more than $37,000 were listed in the will of the late Mrs. Edna Hunter of Willard, filed today in Probate court of Huron county at Norwalk.

Largest of the bequests was left to Mrs. Mary McConney of Revenna, Mrs. Hunter's mother, who was willed $10,000 and a share of the personal property.

Oberlin college was bequeathed $5,000 to maintain the Walter Hunter scholarship fund, established 11 years ago by Mr. and Mrs. Hunter in memory of their son who died shortly after graduating from the college.

The Methodist church here was bequeathed $5,000 and $1,000 was left to the Municipal hospital. Another $1,000 was set up to provide for care of the Hunter burial lot in Willard cemetery. A brother Elmer McConney, Minerva, was left $5,000, and a sister-in-law, Mrs. Leo Crooks was given $2,000.

In addition, there were seven other bequests of $1,000 each to relatives.

Personal property will be divided between Mrs. Crooks, Mrs. Nelle Strahm of Willard, Mrs. Hunter's mother and Mrs. Lucille Young, a nurse.

Mrs. Hunter was the widow of the late Walter Hunter, prominent Willard business man who was killed in an automobile accident five years ago.

POLITICAL MIXUP

Wants Willkie Name But Would Vote For Roosevelt.

DETROIT —(NS)— Wearing a large "Roosevelt" button on his cap, Harry Wilczynski, filed a petition in probate court today asking that his name be changed to "Willkie."

"The changing of my name has nothing to do with the election," Wilczynski explained. "Even though I want to be known as Harry Willkie, I am going to vote for President Roosevelt."

ORDER CHANGES

Sober Driver At Fault In Crash With Inebriate.

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C. —(AP)— A patrolman's report on an automobile accident upset precedent.

He said evidence at the scene indicated that a drunken driver was proceeding correctly on the right side of the road when a sober driver came along and crashed into him, head-on.

U. S. Starts Check of Mansfield Industries

James A. McDevitt, former Mansfielder, has changed his address from Chicago to Washington. McDevitt, who graduated from Senior high in 1931 and from the University of Chicago school of political science in 1935, has just accepted a position in the Bureau of Labor Statistics in the national capital. Prior to last week he has been assistant to Dean Jerome G. Kerwin at the University of Chicago.

The grass in Central park is greener and is covered by fewer leaves this fall than any time in recent years, and there's a reason for it. Park workers are keeping the grass free of leaves and watered at the same time by using powerful sprays of water to force the leaves off. A hose with a special nozzle is trained on the leaves daily, pushing them ahead of the stream of water and soaking the earth at the same time.

Judging from information received here this week from the University of Alabama, John Lake, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Lake, 424 Shepard road, is doing all right for himself down in Dixie. Lake, who spent his freshman year at Ohio State, and entered Alabama only this fall, has already been elected president of the sophomore class and a member of the Commerce board, governing unit of the Commerce college at the university.

Evidently that old picture of Number 2 fire station last Sunday's News-Journal set the old timers to thinking for a number of persons have called in identification of the four men in the picture. Among them was Fred Hein, Mansfield barber, who identified all of them. At the left of the picture was Fire Chief George Knofflock, in the center was Emil Frisch and at the right Amos Myers. The man on the fire wagon was George Englehart.

INSPECTION FOR DEFENSE WORK OPENS IN CITY

Federal Survey Under Way To Determine Extent of Operations Here.

Uncle Sam was feeling Mansfield's defense muscles today. And the chances are good that Mansfield will use its muscle in the national defense effort.

L. W. Casaday, representative of the employment section of the national defense council, which is headed by Sidney Hillman, was in the city today to survey the city's now idle capacity for defense production.

Casaday said his section was chiefly interested in ascertaining how much idle capacity for iron and steel production there is in Mansfield, although he will also check on other industries.

"In the World war, the nation needed all the capacity the steel industry had," Casaday explained, "and the chances are that we will need it all again in our present defense effort. Our section is trying to find out where this capacity is and how great it is. Although nothing definite has been decided as yet, it is safe to say that Mansfield industries will receive a portion of rearmament orders."

Casaday will check other factors in addition to available production capacity not now in use. Among these factors will be the amount and types of employes available but not now at work, housing availability, training facilities for unskilled workers to fit them for skilled jobs and community resources at large.

Arriving in Mansfield late Tuesday, Casaday started his survey yesterday. He was to confer with officials of Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company today, and expected, he said, to arrange conferences with other industrial executives later. He expects to remain in Mansfield at least until the end of the week.

$3,000 GAIN

County's Sales Tax Receipts For Week Total $12,852.

Showing a gain of more than $3,000 over collections for the preceding week, Richland county's sales tax receipts for the week ending Oct. 19 totaled $12,852, State Treasurer Don H. Ebright reported today.

Receipts for the corresponding week last year were $11,457, or $1,395 less than the collections for the third week of this month.

Receipts for the county so far this year are 16 per cent ahead of the corresponding period in 1939, the state treasurer's figures showed.

Collections for this year in the county amount to $459,839 as compared to $395,280 for the same months in 1939.

Total receipts in the state to Oct. 20 amounted to $37,834,721, a gain of $4,000,000 over last year.

Tragedy Stalks Family of Pekin Illinois Banker

DETROIT —(NS)— Arrested in 1938 in connection with the fatal shooting of his 19-year-old wife in Pekin, Ill., James Warren Crabb, 23-year-old scion of a prominent Delavan, Ill., banking family died in Receiving hospital today and the coroner's office planned to conduct an autopsy to determine if he took his own life.

He was found unconscious in his hotel room last night. Beside the bed were two empty bottles which had contained sleeping tablets. Crabb died early today. He had registered at the hotel under the name of James W. Hall, Bloomington, Ill.

Crabb was tried in Pekin after his wife, Betty, died following a quarrel during which a revolver was discharged. Crabb, at the time, claimed the gun discharged accidentally. The jury was unable to agree on a verdict and the case was dismissed.

ATTACK THROUGH MEXICO FEARED

Traveler Says Nazis Prepared for Aerial Blitzkrieg.

CLEVELAND —(AP)— German preparations to attack the United States through Mexico are confirmed today, reports Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., traveler and author.

"I saw enough in Central America to scare me stiff," he told a town hall meeting here.

He said he believed Adolf Hitler's airplane war would hit the United States through Mexico within two weeks if England should be conquered.

The Voice of BROADWAY

—By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

What Broadway Needs.

Is another Floradora sextette . . . Bing Crosby crooning at the Paramount . . . Hats with adjustable sizes for overnight sensations on Broadway . . . Refuse cans designed by Norman Bel Geddes . . . A cuter word for "hamburger" . . . A romance between William Saroyan and Gertrude Stein . . . A musical comedy involving a panda, the way "Higher and Higher" did a seal . . . Laughing gas in the night clubs to go with the comedians whose jokes don't make you chuckle . . . Another F. Scott Fitsgerald to write the saga of the jitterbug generation.

Another silly game like "handies" or "knock knock" to relieve the monotony of political arguments . . . A pool where chorines who work late can swim after midnight.

A fast-moving sepia revue like "Shuffle Along" or "Blackbirds" . . . A nightly Pulitzer prize for the best wisecrack pulled at 21 or the Stork between 10 p. m. and 3 a. m. . . . Another Will Rogers, or someone almost like him, to set a high standard in entertainment and personal living.

A couple of good Hatfield-McCoy feuds between actors and critics, critics and producers. Or will the Kirkland play opening this week take care of that?

Just one night club without a rumba band . . . A Broadway squad for exterminating all the drug store cowboys who hang out on Times Square corners wise-cracking at the chorus girls on their way home.

A brother and sister dance combination like Fred and Adele Astaire . . . More night clubs with careful food, like that at the Versailles . . . A bigger bar for Sardi's —where trying to get a between-the-acts lemonade is like trying to eat fried chicken with a knife and fork in the IRT at 5:17 . . . More dramatic shows to get some of the actors out of Ralphs and onto the stages . . . A couple of new "white hopes" to meet Georgie (Slugger) White, who hasn't made page one in months . . . Fewer practical jokers who think that no gag is funny unless it involves a compound fracture . . . A wag named Sam Lapidus who would tell jokes about Lou Holtz.

A showful of chorines who look like Petty pretties . . . Pitchmen who'll sell you a real ten-dollar bill for a dime . . . A good five-cent dish at Lindy's, so the less affluent residents of that restaurant can live there without going broke . . . Nicer uniforms for the doormen of those Broadway night clubs —to take the place of those second-hand outfits . . . New expressions on the faces of those shop-window manikins. They look so terribly, terribly bored!

Game rooms in the cafes so the socialites who get bored can play circle gammon, monopoly and ping pong instead of throwing champagne at each other . . . Upholstered benches in Duffy Square for actors who get tired standing in front of the Bond building.

A bazaar where showgirls can trade their surplus diamond bracelets and second best silver foxes.

New scripts for the guides on the rubberneck buses who have been chanting the same melodramatic spiel since Lillian Russell was a debutante . . . Somebody ought to tell them that the Bowery is as genteel as Fifth avenue, and that Chinatown is so peaceful you can hear a chow mein noodle drop . . . A new word to be for this generation what "whoopee" was for the prohibition era.

Drug stores that sell drugs and cigar stores that sell cigarets—instead of shirts, ties, socks and shoes . . . A pillory for nuisances who go to movie previews and reel of the plots and the best lines before the premieres.

Fewer cab drivers who volunteer to debate you on everything from Hitler to George S. Kaufman when all you want to do is get from the Barberry room to the Strand . . . A crack-down on the record shops that have an outdoor loudspeaker attached to a phonograph inside, and add to the babel of Broadway . . . A Critic's Circle prize for the genius who writes those flowery descriptions of food for Toffenetti's . . . And one for the local Edgar Allan Poe who dreams up those ghastly lobby displays for the Rialto theater . . . Steak houses that don't hang huge gobs of meat in the window to spoil the appetites of the sensitive . . . More maitre d'hotels with the finesse of Gigi and Miro at the Cog Rouge . . . A book by Noel Scaffa, the diamond detective, telling just how he goes about retrieving stolen gems.

* * *

More cafes which have ten o'clock shows, like the Brevoort Supper club, to fill up that tremendous entertainment void between dinner and post-theater time . . . Sound-proof screens to put around people who insist upon talking just when the song you requested is about to be sung . . . Abolition of those radio shows which give you two minutes of recordings and three minutes of salesmanship . . . A play starring the Lunts, Gertrude Lawrence, Noel Coward, and Tallulah Bankhead . . . Another lowdown blues song like "Beale Street" . . . Taxis with over-sized running boards to accommodate the crowds that want to hear the football games being aired on Saturdays . . . More curvaceous comics like Romo Vincent, who is as funny as he looks.

Japan Urged to Claim Land In South Pole Area

TOKYO — (U.P.) — Lieut. Gen. Choku Shirase, Japan's most famous explorer, has urged Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka to claim most of the South Polar region for Japan, the newspaper Hochi said in a Yokohama dispatch today.

It was said that any Japanese claim would not overlap Little America.

A foreign office spokesman said that Japan along with other countries, was interested in Antarctica because of its mineral resources and accordingly would not abandon any Japanese claims to it.

Shirase, retired, now 80, said he explored the Polar Region in 1912 and Britain claimed it after a British Antarctic expedition in 1923.

Cornell Still Leading

'Big Red' Team Is Tops In Ground Gaining Department.

By GAIL FOWLER

SEATTLE — (AP) — Team performance continued to keep pace with popular favor as Cornell's football team again ranked first today as the nation's outstanding offensive unit.

* * *

For the past three weeks Cornell placed first in the weekly Associated Press sports writers' poll, and for those same three weeks, figures compiled by the American Football Statistical Bureau have borne out the selection.

The "Big Red" eleven from Cayuga leads in total offense with an average of 424.3 yards per game by rushing and passing some 35 yards ahead of the nearest contender.

And for the fourth straight week the Cornellians capture honors as the "passingest" team, being 63 yards per game above second place Princeton.

In four games, Cornell, in 249 plays, has lugged the ball 788 yards and thrown it 909 for a total yardage of 1,697 yards. The club completed 45 of 75 passes, with five intercepted.

Undefeated teams top four of this week's six divisions. Lafayette's Leopards boast the greatest rushing offense.

The Navy has the most impregnable ground and air defenses. Texas A & M, 1939 leader in defense against rushing, finally took over first place in that classification. Twice defeated and once-tied Utah has the best pass defense record, and Texas Mines, with a similar record, is the top punting team.

The leaders so far as statistics go, are:

Total offense—(gains rushing and passing)—after Cornell comes Detroit, 389.5 yards average per game; Arizona, 356, and Pennsylvania, 352.

Rushing offense — Lafayette, 311.6 yards average per game; Detroit, a game shy, 287.8, and Brown, 280.4.

Pass offense—after Cornell comes Princeton, 164 yards average per game, and Marquette, 162.5.

Total defense—Navy has kept land and air attacks down to 63.2 yards per game. Then comes Alabama, 71.5, and Penn State, 105.8.

Defense against rushing — Texas A. & M. yielded but 28 yards per game, average, to its five opponents. Following are Penn State, 29.5; Alabama, 31.8, and Navy, 36.6.

* * *

Pass defense—Utah State, 22.8 yards per game surrendered to forward passes; Fordham, 25, and Navy, 26.6.

Bellville Favored Over Madison Club

By BOB FLOHR

BELLVILLE high will be gunning for its first victory over Madison high school in three years when the two teams meet for their annual gridiron tussle at 2:30 p. m Saturday at Bellville.

Both in 1938 and 1939 Bellville came up to the Madison tussle sporting an undefeated and untied record, and both times Madison upset the "dope cart" by defeating the Bluejays and knocking them from the undefeated list.

Madison this year again is the underdog as the annual contest approaches, since the Rams have yet to register their first victory in seven starts

Although the Rams' record for the year is seven losses against no wins, the worst the school has ever had, a win over the Bluejays on Saturday would be worth more to Madison rooters than a win over any of the previous teams they have met.

* * *

Bellville will be out for revenge in this contest, seeking to repay the Rams for the 1938 and 1939 defeats that spoiled perfect seasons for the Bluejays.

* * *

Madison lost its seventh game of the season last week, bowing to Marion St. Mary's, 6 to 0, and the Bluejays lost their second tilt last Saturday when it was trounced by Mt. Blanchard, 24 to 0.

CINCINNATI —(AP)— Owners of two horses sponged in Monday's races at River Downs offered $1,000 rewards each today for information leading to the conviction of those responsible.

Two Schools Have Battled In 26 Contests

Ashland High Officials Claim Tygers Are Too Strong; Series Started In 1900.

By CHARLES MARTIN, News-Journal Sports Editor.)

WHEN Coach Paul Snyder and his Mansfield high grid forces tangle with Ashland high at Ashland Saturday afternoon it will be the climax of one of the oldest schoolboy rivalries in the state.

According to reports from the Ashland school, the meetings, which started in 1900, will end. Ashland officials are breaking relations because Mansfield, with more manpower to pick from, has held the edge in nearly every contest.

* * *

It will mark the 27th time the two schools have clashed on the gridiron Saturday and again Mansfield will be favored to topple the Ashland combine.

* * *

In the series Mansfield has won 18 victories whiles Ashland was collecting six. Two of the games ended in ties.

Mansfield's biggest score was chalked up in 1914, when it beat Ashland 60 to 0. Ashland's last triumph was registered in 1934.

Mentor Snyder may have trouble keeping the Tygers on their toes after the Massillon game and Ashland, which always points to the Mansfield game, might pull an upset.

The Tygers, who finished their home season last week, will be minus the services of Dick Murray, regular right tackle. The junior lineman injured his knee in the Massillon game and may be out the rest of the season.

Ashland had trouble getting its power attack working until last week when it scored a 14 to 12 win over Mt. Vernon and the club will be in top form for the Mansfielders.

Mansfield's forward wall has shown great improvement in the last two games, and Snyder believes the junior regulars will successfully hold the hard-running Ashland backs.

Led by Martin Henke, senior fullback, the Tygers possess a potent attack. The ball packers are capable of dashing for scores from any point on the field.

It's Not Fair Biting Officials

SALINA, Kas —(AP)—Percy Fossey, sports official, reached into a pile-up of high school football players, seeking the ball. He jerked it back quickly and teeth imprints showed plainly on his arm.

* * *

Fossey peeled the players off quickly and on the bottom he found one whose teeth matched the marks on his arm. "Someone slapped me," allibied the player as Fossey banished him from the game.

* * *

"Well, it wasn't me," retorted the irked official.

BASEBALL PLAYER BAGS BUCK WITH GIFT GUN

YAKIMA, Wash. — (AP) — They held a "Harlond Clift" day in St. Louis late this summer in honor of the Browns' third baseman, and presented him with a brand new rifle.

Clift brought the new rifle home with him to Yakima, and decided to put it to the test. Ninety minutes after the opening of the deer hunting season he bagged a 190-pound buck.

Grid Briefs

WEST POINT, N. Y.—(INS)—With its running attack highly polished, Army departs late today for New York City to engage Notre Dame at the Yankee stadium Saturday. An all sophomore backfield of Jarrell, Mazur, Berry and Roberts seemed set for the opening whistle.

NOTRE DAME, Ind.—(INS)—Notre Dame's Fighting Irish, whose record indicates they should defeat Army in New York Saturday without too much trouble, were not taking the Cadets for granted today.

Yesterday's long scrimmage was one of the fiercest this season and coaches guarding against any show of overconfidence, reminded the players that more than once in the past underdog Army elevens have risen to upset Notre Dame.

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—(INS)—Despite an open date Saturday Coach Fritz Crisler today ordered a heavy scrimmage for the undefeated University of Michigan football squad Guard Milo Sukup, the only regular who is on the injured list, will be ready for the Nov. 9 tilt with Minnesota, trainers said

PITTSBURGH—(INS)—Carnegie Tech's Tartans today held a brief practice session as they wound up their work preparatory to embarking tonight to meet the University of Cincinnati. The squad will include 33 men, Head Coach Eddie Baker said.

PITTSBURGH—(INS)—Faced by a veteran Marquette eleven Saturday, Duquesne's Dukes today rolled up their sleeves and practiced power-house formations which, they hope, will prevent a repeat performance of last year's uphill drive by the localites which almost saw them lose The Marquette eleven was expected in Pittsburgh tomorrow morning.

Shelby High Idle Friday

Whippets Have Open Date: NCO Teams Battle.

SHELBY — Shelby high school Whippets remain idle this week with an open date on its football schedule.

The Whippets, who lead the North Central Ohio conference race with three wins out of four games, have only two games remaining on their 1940 schedule Shelby will play Galion in its final NCO game Nov. 8 at Galion and take on Mansfield on W. W Skiles athletic field here Nov. 16 '

While the Whippets remain idle, attention in the league will be turned on Marion and Bucyrus These schools can share in the league title if they win their next two games.

Marion will invade Galion this week while Bucyrus meets Mt Vernon at the Bucyrus field Marion is expected to wallop Galion while the Redmen are having a tough time with the Mt. Vernon Yellow Jackets

State Lacks Good Reserves

Schmidt Claims Club Needs Better Substitutes.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Answering critics who charged his Ohio State university football team is poorly conditioned, Coach Francis Schmidt today blamed the Buckeye's three consecutive defeats this season to the lack of sufficient first-class substitutes.

"You got to have two or three teams of equal worth when you play a schedule like ours," the Buck coach declared.

"This schedule with such teams as Purdue, Northwestern Minnesota and Cornell takes a lot out of a team. We outplayed Cornell in the first half and Minnesota all the way even though those teams did have better reserves"

Schmidt also defended Don Scott, pre-season all-America quarterback choice.

"Scotty's signal calling has been all right. At least he runs the team himself without instructions from the bench." Schmidt apparently was taking an indirect crack at Carl Snavely Cornell mentor, who was charged by Athletic Director L. W. St John, of OSU, with directing the Big Red's play from the sidelines.

PITCHER CLAIMS HE WILL WIN 20 GAMES

SPOKANE, Wash.—(AP)—George "The Duke" Windsor told friends this spring he would quit baseball "unless I win 20 games."

Pitching for the Spokane Western International league champions, he led the league's hurlers and won 20 games. Next spring he'll try for a spot on the mound staff of the Seattle Rainiers. 1939-

Joe Medwick Signs For 1941 Season

NEW YORK (AP) For the first time in several seasons, Outfielder Joe Medwick of the Brooklyn Dodgers will not be numbered among baseball's annual list of holdouts.

Medwick, obtained last June from the St. Louis Cardinals along with Pitcher Curt Davis for cash and several players, signed for approximately $20,000 immediately after the final game in Brooklyn this year, Dodger President Larry MacPhail said today.

A seasonal recalcitrant when he was in St. Louis, Medwick reportedly went to MacPhail's office and said, "pay me what you think I'm worth."
